THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL

November Issue Now On Sale

Here is a pulsating human document — the story of Linda MacGrath, one of the most lovable character creations in American fiction.

She will hold your quick sympathy from the moment she leaves the dingy boarding house in a small Middle Western town to take charge of the palatial home of a millionaire bachelor uncle in New York. The intimate glimpses of social New York and Long Island, its wasters and workers, its amusements and temptations, fascinate because of their vividness and truth.

Here is a refreshing new story by Margaretta Tuttle, author of "Feet of Clay", from which Cecil B. De Mille's new photoplay was made.

It is sparkling, original, up-to-date. It begins in the November issue.

ZANE GREY "The Wolf Tracker"

A complete novelette by the greatest master of western romance. A tense tale of the frozen forests, vividly real and dramatic, moving briskly to a smashing climax.

50 other features FOR YOUR DIME

INCLUDING THESE

Better Housekeeping — A new department of economics and tested recipes for palatable candied food and fruits. Everyday pies. See how to carve the Thanksgiving turkey.

Sex and Higher Education — Does college fit the girl?

Two Raphael Madonnas — In full color for framing.

For Music Lovers — "Roles" by Chaliapin; also Paderewski — a color painting.

Vanity Unlimited — Change your features at your own risk! Three Short Stories — Humor, mystery and romance.

Three Instalments of Novels — By Herbert Quick, Clarence B. Kelland and Arthur Train. Women's Club Members — Read Alice Ames Winter, Contributing Journal Editor, on "From Dido to Madame Curie".

World Peace — A program for women, by Wallace Irwin.

Fancy Work for Christmas Gifts — Fifty new ideas.

Dressing the Children — Fourteen sketches.

Fashion Notes from Paris and New York — 48 sketches of new, smart, enduring styles, many in color.

The Smaller Hats — Seven new models.

Architecture — Four new houses, with plans.

Home Decoration — The elements of period furniture.

The Office Dog — A touch of humor for the whole family.

SLACKERS IN POLITICS

Slacker! What a hateful word! No term could be applied to Americans that would cut their pride more keenly than the one word "slacker." Resentment and denial of the charge would be prompt and bitter, but would the resentment be justified? Just because an accusation mortifies us is no indication that we are guiltless. Rather the inference is that if we are "touchy" the spot is sore. There are many kinds of slackers, particularly in politics.

Four Kinds of Political Slackers— Slackers in International Politics; Slackers in National Politics; Slackers in State Politics; Slackers in Local Politics.

Is your conscience clear on all these points?

What do you think our relations with Europe should be? Will you work and vote for the group most likely to carry out your views of right? Things are in an awful mess over there. What are you going to do about it?

Do you approve of the Mellon Tax Reduction Program? Will you ask your representatives to vote for or against it? The tax question is nationally important. What are you going to do about it?

In this land of freedom and equality there are many laws glaringly unjust to women. In forty of the States a wife is not legally entitled to her own earnings. What are you going to do about it?

A slacker in local politics is a Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Probate Court.

To Joseph F. Bougahan, Charles E. Bougahan, Gertrude M. Brady, Margaret E. Bougahan, Evelyn V. Green, and L. Bougahan and Arthur Bougahan, all of Newton in the County and Commonwealth aforesaid and to all other persons interested.

WHEREAS, L. A. Bougahan of Newton in the County of Middlesex, a person, representing that she holds as tenant in common one undivided third part or share of certain land lying in the said County of Middlesex, and briefly described as follows: A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon containing 4800 sq. ft. of land more or less, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the northerly side of Watertown Street at the southwesterly corner of the premises and land now or formerly of Boyle's, running northwardly 80 ft. to the northeasterly corner of said premises and northwesterly corner of said Boyle's land. Thence turning and running westwardly 60 ft. to a point on the easterly line of said Watertown Street 60 ft. to land now or formerly of Welsh, thence turning and running southerly by said land of Welsh, 16 Hyde St., running northwardly 80 ft. to the point of beginning. Setting forth that she desires that all of said land may be sold at private sale for not less than five hundred dollars and praying that partition may be made of the land aforesaid according to law; and to that end that a commissioner be appointed to make a survey and to be ordered to make sale and conveyance of all, or any part of said land which the Court finds cannot be advantageously divided, to be sold for private sale or public auction, and be ordered to distribute the net proceeds thereof.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the twentieth day of November A. D. 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And if cause be shown, you are cited to this citation by serving a copy thereof on each person interested whose address is known, either personally or by registered mail, and to do the like before said Court, and, if any one is not so served, by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper published in Newton, the last publication to be on day at least before said Court, and by mailing a copy thereof to the last known address of such person, fourteen days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this sixteenth day of October in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS, Register.

A GOODLY CITY

In a recent symposium in a Boston newspaper of reasons why the cities and towns in Metropolitan Boston are good places to live in, Mayor Childs had the following to say about Newton:

Newton, the Garden City so-called, originally named "Nonantum" by the Indians, which means "Place of Rejoicing," is a good city in which to live for several reasons:

First—There is plenty of room—less than 50,000 people now occupy an area of 18 square miles.

Second—it is handy to the great city of Boston and yet is suburban, with beautiful country—a city primarily of homes.

Third—it has excellent railroad and good railway service.

Fourth—A fine spirit of good will is abroad in the community. Love is capitalized instead of hate. All kinds, creeds and colors, dwell together in unity, making relationships thereby both good and pleasant.

Fifth—it is a high plane. The people are intelligent, public spirited, patriotic and honest. This guarantees good government. Public officials realize that a public office is a public trust.

Sixth—it is a city of schools—public, private and parochial, where the minds of youth are led over the highway to truth; where patriotism, obedience to law and loyalty to the constitution are stressed by good men and noble women, who are devoting their efforts not only to the mastery of the three R's, but also to the great task of ennobling, enriching and maturing personality.

Seventh—it is a city of parks and playgrounds, more than 300 acres in all. Eighty acres of playgrounds alone, supervised by one of the greatest experts in this country, who has been suggested that another form of government might be better suited to our present development.

Those who doubt the fitness of Americans for that noblest form of government say it is because we are a nation of political slackers. The majority of us take no personal part in our government. We neglect our responsibilities as voters and allow unworthy professional politicians, who are in the game for what they can get out of it, to choose representatives whom they control. These selfish politicians take the trouble to organize and vote in order to attain their ends.

Until honest citizens become equally aware, it is futile to imagine that we are applying democratic principles to our Government, which is supposed to rest upon the consent of the governed. It's an old story now, over which we have blushed less than we should, but still, we have blushed a little, though England shows at the polls about 80 per cent of her voting strength, and Germany nearer 90 per cent, the United States shows but 49 per cent.

—Public Affairs.

THE BUILDING CODE

Public Hearing on Proposed Changes Advocated By Chamber of Commerce

A public hearing on the proposed changes in the Newton Building Code was recently held at City Hall.

The hearing was held by Aldermanic Committees. While the attendance was not large, those present indicated a deep interest in the proposed changes, no opposition being voiced by those present to the recommendations submitted by the Chamber of Commerce.

Third—it has excellent railroad and good railway service.

Fourth—A fine spirit of good will is abroad in the community. Love is capitalized instead of hate. All kinds, creeds and colors, dwell together in unity, making relationships thereby both good and pleasant.

Eighth—it is a city of libraries, wherein are available man's best friends—good books.

Ninth—it is a sanitary city where life and property are safe. Good water, sewers, streets, hospital and health. A police and fire service unsurpassed by any city in its size.

Tenth—it is a city whose people place the proper appraisal on youth—a city's biggest asset, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Catholic Club, Boys' Club and Scout troops flourish here, all aiming to make a "better citizen" tomorrow by giving due attention to the mental, physical and moral development of the boys and girls of today.

Eleventh—it is a city of fraternal organizations which hold up the principle of genuine brotherhood and lay great emphasis on "Living the Life."

Twelfth—it is a city of churches, all denominations, where godly men who are trying to make real the life of God in the souls of men, by precept and example, allure to brighter worlds and lead the way.

Thirteenth—it is a city whose salvation is "Welcome" and whose parting word is "Come again."

WINS $100

Arthur Jones, chauffeur for Mr. John H. Lesh of Beacon street, Newton Centre, was the winner of the prize of $50 recently offered by the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company for his letter on "How to Prevent automobile accidents." When Mr. Lesh learned of his success he immediately presented Mr. Jones with another $50. This is the letter written by Mr. Jones:

"Being a chauffeur for 12 years with a clean record, kindly let me tell you the rules that I always bear in mind.

"Keep my car under control at all times.

"Drive according to conditions of traffic.

"Take no chances whatever, as that is what causes accidents.

"Stop before going over an unguarded railroad crossing.

"If children are playing around, drive very slowly, as you never know what they are going to do.

"Test my brakes every morning.

"Do not cut in and out of line in heavy traffic.

"Never pass a car until I have a clear view in front of me.

"Slow down for cross streets, so that I can stop in case the other fellow cannot."

Mr. Alfred M. Reichart is the scoutmaster of the new troop at West Newton. Mr. Reichart is another one of the old scouts who have come back to the movement as an officer, having been a scout in old troop 9. After seeing service in the World War, he spent some time in Washington and now has come back to this vicinity to live and the Council are very glad to welcome him as scoutmaster.

THE LITTLE TOWN OF MALIN

By J. D. Monahan

I am far across the ocean,

DEATH OF MRS. HENSHAW

Although in failing health for several years, the death of Mrs. Katherine F. Henshaw, which occurred at her home in Newton Centre Friday morning, Oct. 31, came as a surprise to many friends.

Mrs. Henshaw was the widow of John E. Henshaw, a well-known sculptor and designer of Boston and Lowell, and had resided in Newton for thirty-two years.

She was a woman of a quiet, retiring nature, much beloved by all who knew her and retained a keen interest in public affairs to the end.

She leaves two daughters, Julia C. Henshaw, librarian at Newton Centre, and Blanche E. Henshaw, a teacher in the Brookline schools.

The funeral services were held at her late residence, 50 Paul street, Newton Centre, Monday, November 3, and were conducted by Rev. E. M. Noyes of the First Congregational Church. Interment at Lowell, Mass., her old home.

FITTING THE BOOK TO THE CHILD

Newton Free Library Helps Parents Choose Books For A Child To Own

Fitting the book to the child is what children's librarians throughout the country are doing every day in the year. During Children's Book Week, however, they turn their attention toward helping older persons find the right books to buy for the child's own home library. With this end in view, some of the best children's book will be displayed in the Main Library of Newton and in the Branch Libraries during Book Week from November 9 to 15. Seeing the books themselves is of the most help to parents or to any older person interested in developing a child's taste for owning good books. For those who cannot reach the Library during that week, the following suggestions of books for children of differing ages and taste are made here.

Youngest Children

It is not too soon to begin buying books when a child is only two years old. By that time he can appreciate lovely picture books and can be taught to handle them carefully. As he grows older he will become familiar with the stories or rhymes illustrated by these pictures which at first were only pictures to him without any story interest. The first of all books to buy for the baby is a nursery rhyme book, and of these a Mother Goose book is of course the best. As in the case of all other children's classics there are numberless editions of this old book, so that the parent is at once confronted with the problem of just which edition to choose from the many published. One of the best is "Little Mother Goose" illustrated by Jessie Wilcox Smith. It is a small book as its name implies and therefore, easily handled by the tiny children. Nevertheless, it contains most of the rhymes we want the children to know. Another book of old nursery rhymes is "Ring o' Roses," illustrated by the Englishman, L. Leslie Brooke. His picture books may be obtained either in large expensive editions or in small paper-covered copies. This fact is also true of other picture-books by such fine illustrators as Randolph Caldecott, Walter Crane, and H. M. Brock.

For the children who are just beginning to read to themselves, there are small story-books with many illustrations and large type. Some of these have been loved by many generations of children; others have only been published recently. "The cock, the mouse and the little red hen," "Little Black Sambo," and "The tale of Peter Rabbit" have for years appealed to the natural love of animals the small child has. Newer stories with the same appeal are the "Story of Mrs. Tubbs" and her dog, Punk, her duck, Ponk, and her pig, Pink. "The Bojabi tree," with its strange fruit, and the "Velveteen rabbit" or how toys become real. The little children also like to hear true stories about other children and fortunately there are several books which give in a easy clear style the everyday doings of child life. W. J. Hopkins in the Sandman stories has written some of the best there are. The boys like these and the stories about Charlie's adventures with his kitten Topsy and with his puppy Bingo. Little girls enjoy especially Clara W. Hunt's book "About Harriet."

Among other things he referred to the changes constantly taking place which led to new and different view points and responsibilities. Now the woman in the home can not be bounded by her own household. To serve her own children she must interest herself in community welfare. She must consider the larger aspects of education, amusement and sanitation. As man has to do with the material things and can see tangible results so woman whose work is of a more personal nature must wait long for the outcome of her labor. The trend of modern life with its many interests and its hurry has interfered with the exercise of the devotional life in the home. The father used to be the priest of the family. Formerly he announced in tone of authority the hour his children must start for church. Now he asks, "Who would like to go to church today?"

The pictures of the men of a past generation suggest a totally different type of character—that of the philosopher, a man of granite. In this age if religion is to be taught in the home it is the mother who must be the priestess. It is through her prayers that children are consecrated to high and holy tasks.

Mrs. Decatur described the various improvements which had been made in the church property. The work had been helped on by some generous gifts and further changes are to be made in the woman's parlor.

The luncheon was in charge of Mrs. B. A. Robinson. Tables were appropriately decorated with pumpkins and fall berries. A large bunch of yellow chrysanthemums was presented to Mrs. Ellis. Mrs. F. C. Bassett was chairman of the serving committee.

EDITORIAL

We must confess to considerable sympathy for the residents of Newtonville who have put up a valiant fight to change the location of the proposed new High School building on Clafin Park. If we recall the proposition originally advanced at the time popular subscriptions were asked for the purpose of obtaining the Clafin estate for municipal purposes, it was contemplated having a civic centre at this point with handsome public buildings flanking a vista from Walnut street to the Technical High School building set well back from the street. That suggestion, of course, will never be carried out if a $600,000 school building is erected squarely in front of the Technical Building.

We still believe the school committee and city fathers made their first mistake in not providing for a new senior high school on the South side of the city. When the Oak Hill section of the city is further developed, there will surely be a strong demand for such a building and it is short sighted policy not to anticipate such development.

In its votes on the various referenda, there were less blanks cast than we expected, showing that the people were awake to the arguments which had been advanced on both sides of the several questions under consideration. We were surprised at the negative majority on the matter of taxing gasoline as we expected an economic proposition like this would have appealed to Newton citizens. When the aforesaid citizens are called upon in the future to pay higher taxes for the extension of good roads, some of them may come to the conclusion that they voted wrong on this question last Tuesday. Incidentally it shows the folly of putting purely financial matters up to a popular vote. It may interest some of those who opposed the child labor amendment to learn that the proposition can be brought up again and again until it is accepted, and that it will require "eternal vigilance" in the future to prevent ratification of the amendment.

We congratulate the residents of Newton on the splendid showing made at the polls on Tuesday, both in regard to the number of ballots cast as well as to the candidates favored. The percentage of 93.3 compares favorably with the votes cast four years ago when Mr. Harding was elected and with the greatly increased voting list is quite an accomplishment.

We are also pleased at the showing made by our fellow citizen, Mr. Strabo V. Caggett in his contest for the office of state auditor. Newton, for a strong Republican city, certainly came across in splendid fashion for a Democratic candidate.

The experiences at the election last Tuesday should lead our city fathers to divide the voters into much smaller precincts than at present. It is too much to expect of our election officers to require them to be on duty from about 5.30 election morning until two or three o'clock the "morning after." Men cannot do their work efficiently or accurately with such long hours. Our election officers have done splendid work, but they should not be called upon to do it again.

We congratulate the citizens of Massachusetts on the election of Alvan T. Fuller as governor, as it insures a continuation of the policies of former Governor Calvin Coolidge and of Governor Channing Cox. We predict a notable administration of public affairs by Governor Fuller, who will have a splendid assistant in Lieutenant-Governor Frank G. Allen.

Newton will be well represented in the House of Representatives by Messrs. Saltonstall, Hollis and Lutwiler, albeit we shall miss the sound common sense and excellent judgment of Representative Bernard Early.

Mayor Childs in another column gives thirteen excellent reasons why Newton is a good place to live in. Once in a while we agree with His Honor the Mayor.

NEWTON ROTARY CLUB

The members of the club at the weekly luncheon held Monday at the Newton Club heard a most interesting talk from Mr. J. Adam Puffer on the unusual subject of "Fatherhood a Profession." Mr. Puffer told some unusual experiences he had had with fathers who knew how to chum with their children and advocated a positive method of dealing with young people such as "Do this," rather than the common-place negative manner of always saying "Don't do this or that."

George J. Martin was congratulated on winning the club championship at golf.

Next Monday the Club will receive a visit from District Governor Elmer Hubbard.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Charlotte White, ten years old, of 400 Ward street, Newton Centre, while crossing Sumner street, Newton Centre, at the junction of Lyman and Willow streets, with a group of children on the way to school, was knocked over by Andrew Schwab of 83 Watertown street, West Newton, down by an automobile owned and operated by himself, shortly after eight o'clock.

The girl was taken home by Mr. Schwab, who then went for a physician and brought him to attend her. She was cut and bruised about the legs and later lapsed into unconsciousness, regaining consciousness late that afternoon.

The group of children, according to Mr. Schwab's report to the police, ran in front of his car. The White girl stopped at the curb and did not cross with the others, but just as the automobile started up she dashed across and was struck down.

Mr. Horace S. Bassett, 77 years of age, of 173 Morton street, Newton Centre, was found last week Thursday night lying in a pool of blood on Homer street, near Morton, by Charles Scipione of 146 Walnut street, Newtonville. He was unconscious and bleeding profusely from a wound in his head. He was taken by Scipione into a nearby house and later to his home, where three stitches were taken in his scalp by a physician. He was also cut and bruised on the legs and body. He was unable to tell, because of his condition, what had happened, but the police believe he was struck by an automobile and the driver made his getaway. The injuries to Mr. Bassett are serious.

While crossing Washington street at Lewis terrace on the way to church Friday evening, Miss Mabel Ready of 36 Fairmont avenue, was struck by an automobile owned by the American Auto Livery Company and operated by Pasquale M. Lupo of 16B Middle street, Newton. Lupo was blinded by headlights of another car. Miss Ready was only slightly injured.

Three automobiles were in collision last Saturday afternoon near the corner of Washington and Elm streets. An automobile operated by Mrs. Elta Haverty came out of Elm street and was proceeding towards the bridge when a machine owned by Mrs. Jessie D. Hodder of Sherborn, crowded Mrs. Haverty over towards the sidewalk where she struck the car of Frank A. Burke of Derby street. All three cars were damaged but no one was hurt.

Last Sunday a machine owned by William E. Margan of New Jersey struck the car of Charles D. Weathers of 762 Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre and bent the mud guard. The accident took place on Commonwealth avenue.

On Monday afternoon, a Hudson coach owned by Thomas Hennessey of Carver road, Newton Highlands, and operated by Mary A. Hennessey struck the Buick car owned by Bessie L. Rhodes of 480 Parker street, Newton Centre, at the corner of Institution avenue and Centre streets. The Hennessey car was slightly damaged.

Early Saturday evening the Ford truck of John E. Kelley of 610 Watertown street and operated by Clifford Marchant, struck the Dodge car owned by Ralph W. Stearns of Mt. Vernon street. Mr. Stearns was turning around on Washington street near Washington terrace, Newtonville, at the time. Both cars were slightly damaged.

Tuesday evening while Miss Olive Westcott and Miss Chirella Silainen, both students at Lasell, were crossing Auburn street at the corner of Lexington street, they were run down by an automobile owned by Ernest Braithwaite of 366 Central street and driven by Katherine Braithwaite. Both girls were badly cut about the face and legs and were taken to the Newton Hospital.

Early Saturday evening Sally Wright of Victoria Circle was struck and slightly injured while crossing Washington street near Central avenue, Newtonville, by a machine operated by Harry Sanford of Auburndale.

Tuesday evening while Miss Olive Westcott and Miss Chirella Silainen, both students at Lasell, were crossing Auburn street at the corner of Lexington street, they were run down by an automobile owned by Ernest Braithwaite of 366 Central street and driven by Katherine Braithwaite. Both girls were badly cut about the face and legs and were taken to the Newton Hospital.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will serve at the refreshment tables which will not be in the basement as in the past.

The committee, headed by Frank Wilcox, report a good advance sale of tickets and are preparing to handle a crowd of fifteen hundred. The support of the public is solicited, as proceeds go toward carrying on the work of the Legion, which is greater and more far-reaching than generally supposed.

Post Road Farm Milk
Your Milk Supply Is Important

You should demand that your milk is received from a herd of cows that are clean and healthy.

That the stable in which these cows are kept is clean and sanitary;

That the milking is done in a sanitary, careful way;

That the milk is carefully bottled and delivered;

That the tuberculin test be applied to the herd of cattle supplying you with milk, and that you receive milk from a tubercular free herd.

Unless you are getting milk handled under these conditions, you are not getting the best.

It is important to study the source of your milk supply, which will easily determine its quality.

We invite you to inspect our dairy.

If you order from the Post Road Farm, you will get rich, clean milk of fine flavor.

We deliver in Brookline and a large part of the Newtons.

ANOTHER MIDNIGHT SESSION

Chief of Police Burke asked the board to revoke a common victualler's license of Joseph Arduino on Langley road, Thompsonville. The Chief stated that Arduino does an extensive coffee business, one third of which was synthetic gin. The department had had Arduino in court where he pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $100 while his assistant, John Delmonte, paid fines of $100 and $150. The board subsequently revoked this license.

Hearings were also held on several pole locations, and on taking land for drain and sewer in Lockesley road, Tamworth road, and off Warren street, at which no one appeared.

Mayor Childs sent in recommendations for several additional appropriations, and Commissioner Stuart reported the completion of work on Tarleton road costing $3,096, Vineyard road, costing $1,500, and Gay street, costing $2,165.

A hearing was granted on the petition of F. C. Perry on the location of the proposed new high school on Clafin park. Mr. Perry read a long statement opposing the location on the ground that Clafin park was not to be built upon, that the proposed site had 15 to 20 feet of muck before hard pan was reached, and predicted it would cost $100,000 to get a suitable foundation, and because water would be found within three or four feet of the surface. He told of an amusing meeting with Mr. George M. Angier, chairman of the School Committee, and closed by presenting a substitute plan, placing the new buildings at right angles to the southerly end of the Technical High School.

Mr. John F. Brant told of visiting other high schools and expatiated on the beauty of the Technical High School.

He wanted a campus for the benefit of posterity and urged the board not to spoil the present vista.

Mr. John E. Frost said he had lived in Newton over 30 years and this was the first time he had come in "touch with this more or less august body." He also urged the adoption of the substitute plan. Mr. Chas. F. Cheney thought it almost a crime to hide the beautiful Technical High School, and Mr. A. D. Clafin said the donors of the land expected a park to be created on this property.

He said no comprehensive plan for development of the park had ever been made, and urged the adoption of the substitute plan. Rev. Edward N. Noyes told of the difficulties found at Yale and urged the adoption of some plan for grouping the mass of proposed buildings on the park. Frederick W. Rust and J. M. Andre also spoke.

Later in the session, the board approved an order for $17,000 for improvement of Laundry brook, and thereby virtually refused to consider the matter of changing the site as first proposed. Alderman Walton was the only member recorded against this order.

Petitions of Higgins and Callahan for four bowling alleys at 1156 Walnut street, of Bennie Santillo for pool tables, and bowling alleys at 357 Watertown street, of J. H. Nagle for a victualler license on Washington street, and of Thomas Dangelo for pool tables on Watertown street, Nonantum, were granted.

Petitions were also received from Eames and Castle for a victualler license, 24 Richardson street, A. Kasper for a victualler license at 4 Cheney place, of E. J. Collins for a 1st class carriage license, for the laying out of Ransom road, for Soldiers' Relief and a claim of Michael Mooney for reimbursement of hospital and other bills amounting to $116.

The board refused to grant the petition for naming a new street "Earl Ave."

Orders were passed for water mains in Albin road, Commonwealth avenue, Fenwick road, Huntington road and Lockesley road, for various additions to the buildings, for $17,000 for improvement of Laundry brook, $3,000 to be charged to Street improvements and $14,000 to Sewer construction.

Land of Ross on Commonwealth avenue near Melrose street was changed from a general district to the business district.

To the heirs-at-law and all other persons interested in the estate of

MARY A. Murphy

sometimes known as Mary M. Murphy

late of Newton, wife of the deceased

WHEREAS, Edward L. Folsom, executor of the said deceased, has presented to said Court his petition for license to sell at private sale, in accordance with the offer in said petition, to sell at public auction on such day as may be so adjourned, best, the whole of a certain parcel of the real estate of said deceased for the payment of debts, legacies and funeral expenses of said deceased, for other reasons set forth in said petition.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge in said County on the eleventh day of November, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, if you have, cause, to show, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve on citation by serving a copy thereof to each person interested in the estate of the said deceased, in each of the Newton and Cambridge, in the County of Newton, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS, Register.

Oct. 24-31-Nov. 7.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
Probate Court

Middlesex, ss.

To Katherine F. Williams, Lewis W. Williams and Betty Field, a minor of Forest Hills, and Betty Field, a minor of Forest Hills, in the County of Middlesex; Irene E. MacPherson and George D. MacPherson, of Newton in the County of Middlesex; Eugene E. Lynch of Boston in the County of Suffolk, the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company as its trustee under the will of Jerome Eugene Lynch late of said Newton, deceased; and said Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company as its trustee under the will of Jerome Eugene Lynch late of said Newton, deceased.

WHEREAS, Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company as its trustee under a decree of said Court, dated July 2, 1924, for the purpose of making sale of certain land which was made subject to executors devises or other future interests by the will of said testatrix and to hold and apply the proceeds of the same to law as provided in said Court's petition, praying for the instructions of said Court—

1. As to whether said petitioner has the right to change the investments already made of the proceeds of said sale at discretion without a license from said Court.

2. Whether it is the duty of said petitioner to retain any part of the principal over any part of the principal of said proceeds in view of the testamentary provision that one of the three parts into which "what remains" of the estate to be divided after the death of the husband of said testatrix, purported to be "given to my two daughters"; and if so, what part, to whom and when the property is to be given.

3. Whether it is the duty of said petitioner to retain any part of said principal on account of said parts purchased by him for the benefit of the person ultimately entitled to said principal, or to pay it over from time to time; and if so, to whom and in what proportions or amounts.

4. Whether it is the duty of said petitioner at the present time to pay over any part of the principal of said proceeds in view of the testamentary provision that one of said parts purchased by him for the benefit of the person ultimately entitled to said principal, or to pay it over from time to time; and if so, to whom and in what proportions or amounts.

5. Whether, if it is the duty of said petitioner to pay over any part of said principal, on account of said parts purchased by him for the benefit of the person ultimately entitled to said principal, or to pay it over from time to time; and if so, to whom and in what proportions or amounts.

6. That said Court will determine the amount to be allowed to counsel and to the guardian for the case and next friend, and from what funds said allowances shall be paid.

7. For other directions.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the twentieth day of November, A. D. 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

GIRL SCOUTS

Golden Eaglet Awarded

Two hundred and eighty-five Girl Scouts attended the Newton Rally which was held in the gymnasium of the Newton High School on Friday evening, October 24th. They made a fine appearance as they marched in to the hall headed by the Bugle and Drum Corps and the audience of more than three hundred visitors rose to their feet and stood at attention as the flags passed by.

The program of the evening was "A Day in Camp" and the scouts and officers who were at Camp Mary Day during the summer took part in this episode and gave a very interesting and enjoyable entertainment.

After the girls had marched in and the troops were lined up around three sides of the hall, the captains gave their reports, and the rally was opened by singing the Girl Scout hymn. The bugle and drum corps played the Newton march and then the program began.

Five girls from Troop II and five from Troop V under the direction of Captain Redfield (Captain of Troop II) erected the camp setting. They put up a tent, a shack and a rustic table and erected a flag pole—all in ten minutes. Revelle was sounded by Elizabeth Plimpton and all the "campers" ran out from their troops to the centre of the hall for setting up drill which was led by Captain Larcome of Troop I. Assembly sounded and the girls formed in three patrols of 3

CAMPAIGN FOR SAFE MILK

The following address by Mrs. William A. Bedford, chairman of the Public Health Committee of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, was delivered at the Public Health session of the Newton Community Welfare Conference, October 16:

Probably most of you have never doubted the safety of your milk—we take our milk supply for granted the way we do our water supply. Why? Because we have a Board of Health supposed to relieve us from thinking about these things.

It is astonishing to many to learn that the purity and cleanliness of our milk supply rests wholly with the Newton Board of Health and not with the State Board of Health.

It is still more astonishing to every one to find that our Board of Health has failed to take advantage of modern progressive means for milk protection as the Board of Health of most of our neighboring cities and towns have done.

It has been proven by scientific men that the following infectious diseases may be transmitted through the milk—scarlet fever, diphtheria, septic sore throat, dysentery, typhoid fever and tuberculosis. Tuberculosis may be transmitted both from the human being and the cow. There are several protective measures that our City Board of Health could adopt that would give us far more protection than we have now. The first measure deals with Tuberculosis—the tuberculosis that may be transmitted through milk from a tubercular cow. The second measure deals with proper bacterial examination of all our milk.

It has been definitely proven that tuberculosis may be transmitted from a tubercular cow through its milk to the child drinking it. Careful investigation by the New York City Health Department found that about one-third of all cases of tuberculosis of children under 5 was due to this bovine tuberculosis, and nearly as large a per cent for children between 5 and 15 years. Knowing this, our Federal Government has co-operated with our States to eradicate tuberculosis in cattle.

You know of course that there is at present no law, State or City, requiring our cattle to be tested for tuberculosis. Recently one near-by farm which was furnishing milk was found by the State to have several tubercular cattle. Until then this milk from these cattle was the main diet of little children in Newton. Knowing that more of our cattle may be tubercular, we wish our Board of Health to adopt a measure that will give us more protection—by requiring all our milk sold in Newton to come from tuberculin tested cattle, or otherwise the milk must be perfectly pasteurized.

We have our cattle tuberculin tested according to the accredited plan, the State makes the test and all cows reacting to the test are slaughtered. The State and Federal Government each pay the farmer about $25 for each cow slaughtered, and the farmer sells the slaughtered cow for whatever price he may get.

Tuberculosis is very insidious. It is difficult to trace. It is not like an epidemic and yet our institutions are filled with tubercular children. One has only to visit Peabody Home to realize the effect of only one type of this disease. Soon we are to raise money by Christmas Seals to assist in the relief and eradication of it, and yet our City continues, not ignorantly, to allow many of its children to drink milk from cows that may be and probably are tubercular, and our Board

IMPRESSIONS OF THE WEST

On Friday, August 22nd, the writer with forty-four others, all members of the Appalachian Mountain Club of Boston, started on a Western trip under the leadership of Mr. Harrie Whitney.

As we stayed only a day of two in each place, our impressions were necessarily fleeting. There was no time to learn of the population, industries, activities, or character of the people. The later, to the outward eye at least, showed no striking differences from those of the "Effete East." They seemed just "plain folks" such as we have here in New England, with all the faults and virtues of the latter. But the country, even to the least observing, presented differences from that about New England, and even from Europe.

The trip started officially from Boston, from which place we went directly to Montreal, but as we had only an hour or so in Montreal, it may be said to have really begun at our first stopping place, Toronto, Ontario.

Here a sight-seeing automobile made a very comprehensive trip of the city. We were much impressed with the beauty of Toronto situated as it is on Lake Ontario, which lay bright and smiling in the morning sunshine.

The city is apparently one of considerable wealth and culture. Its boulevards are broad, and its homes unusually attractive. Most of the latter were of the style of English homes with spacious gardens and terraces covered with a profusion of flowers always well cared for and with wonderful lawns. We amused ourselves deciding which of the many beautiful houses we would like to live in. Some of them reminded one of the covers of "The House Beautiful."

An early afternoon train brought us to Port McNicoll where we boarded the palatial lake steamer for a trip through the Great Lakes.

One often hears of rough passages through these lakes, but on the Sunday on which we sailed through them they were as calm as Boston harbor, with almost no motion of the ship, and with bright sunlight making life on deck one of joy and gladness.

The scenery along the Great Lakes was not striking. For the most part they seemed inhabited, the summer homes scattered along the shore being largely hidden by the trees.

One striking incident of the trip will always remain with me. At Sault Ste. Marie we stopped for a few hours from about nine o'clock to twelve o'clock on Sunday morning. Here the members of the Rotary Club of the city met the steamer and cordially invited all who wished to attend divine service at whatever church they wished—Protestant or Catholic, taking us in automobiles and returning us in good season to our steamer.

Many of us accepted this kind invitation and were treated with the utmost courtesy, even the minister—at the Methodist Church at least—referring to our presence among the readers at whatever church they wished—Protestant or Catholic, taking us in automobiles and returning us in good season to our steamer.

Two different Executive Boards of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs have voted unanimously for the recommendation of the adoption of this regulation. Last February I called on the Chairman of the Board of Health and again last May urging that we be progressive and adopt such a requirement, and finally a hearing was held October 6. Only two milks were opposed this measure, and only one owns cattle (the other one imports his milk from Littleton) and our vessel gradually lifted to the required height.

Lake Superior being much larger than Lake Huron was somewhat rougher. For many hours we were entirely out of sight of land. At Fort William where we took the train for Banff, Alberta, there were huge granite cliffs being a centre for the shipping of grain from the West to the East.

The next two days were uneventful, the country being flat and monotonous. One on these we had the only rain—except for a shower during the night—in the entire trip of nearly six weeks.

On the third day after our passage of the Great Lakes, we came in sight of the Canadian Rockies. Rising suddenly out of a flat plain, they gave one an unforgettable thrill. Tier upon tier they rose, gaunt and grey, with sharply cut outlines against a clear, blue sky. As the long heavy train wound its way slowly through the defiles which seemed almost to meet overhead, one caught glimpses of snow capped peaks towering over them.

We arrived at Banff about nine o'clock on a beautiful sunny morning. The air was like wine. We drove at once through the town across a rushing river to our hotel, the Banff Springs Hotel, the finest in the Canadian Rockies, with an altitude of 4,625 feet above sea level.

This hotel has from its terraced veranda one of the finest views to be found anywhere in the Rockies. In the immediate foreground are the Sulphur Baths of a vivid emerald color, very clear and most transparent.

Those who advocate the modification or repeal of the public provision of the tax law argue that its pernicious effects would be felt throughout the community.

The people approving this new departure in the income tax law contend that the publication of names and amounts of assessments is the only means of guarding against fraud and tax-dodging by wealthy people.

The complaints which have reached the Treasury Department point out that the policy as laid down in the present law involves a great peril to the credit and business of the country.

Some have gone so far as to say that the publication of small returns will weaken the confidence of investors and the integrity of business institutions and bring about conditions bordering on panic.

Of course, these are extreme views on the situation which must be considered by Congress.

It is said that the printing of tax returns in weekly newspapers would have a mischievous effect in that in the small communities everybody knows everybody else.

The claim is also made that there would be a strong incentive on the part of inquisitive persons to retail details of their neighbors' taxes and speculate as to their personal honesty and earning power. In large cities, the neighborly element is never as pronounced.

The collector of internal revenue in the Washington district has taken this factor under consideration in requiring the publication of names of those inquiring about individual returns and listing the reasons for their request.

This method would show the taxpayers just who wanted to know about their private affairs and bring about retaliation. At best the situation is very complicated and one that will require considerable study by Congress.

Visitors always ask about what notables do with their spare time and how they manage to keep their health in the press of official business, luncheons, dinners, and speech-making.

A stroll about Washington during the early morning hour will convince you that walking is not a lost art despite the cheapness of transportation. The early risers will find President Coolidge walking briskly around the pathways along the Potomac River, or through the business districts gazing in shop windows, accompanied only by a secret service guard. The President does not play golf like his distinguished predecessors, Harding, Wilson and Taft, and walking is practically his only exercise and diversion as he is not enthusiastic over theater.

The late President Wilson was an enthusiastic vaudeville fan. Mrs. Coolidge is also an ardent pedestrian. But she prefers a more leisurely gait and unless she has shopping in view, which she usually does on foot, her promenades are likely to be along the Potomac, or in the woods in the course of a motor ride in the country. Mrs. Coolidge's escort is a tall, distinguished-looking secret service man who was selected by the First Lady of the Land for this detail when she entered the White House. The President is usually ready for his walk about six o'clock in the morning, the old New England habit prevailing. His office hours, however, do not begin until nine o'clock.

Rising abruptly at one side of the lake, too, is of an indescribable color, neither blue nor green, but a kind of bluish-green with a touch of amber where the sunlight filters through. In front of the hotel which faces the glacier are some gorgeous poppies which give a most attractive touch to the scene.

In spite of the blizzard, our party after a hearty lunch, started for Mirror Lake, a short but stiff climb at the right hand side of the lake. Some climbed still higher to Lake Agnes, called "the Lake in the Clouds." This was literally true on the day on which we arrived, for clouds were all about us. A charming tea room on this little lake was a most welcome resting place where we secured warmth and shelter.

Rising abruptly at one side of Lake Louise was the Beehive so called from its shape. Several of our party climbed this.

Contrary to our expectation, the following day dawned bright and clear, the glacier looming up dazzling white. We scattered in many directions according to our tastes. Some took the upper Glacier walk which gave us beautiful views of the lake looking towards the hotel and away from the glacier. Some rested by the side of the lake in one of its many summerhouses. Some climbed onto the glacier itself. Some climbed Saddleback Mountain from which one could see the valley along which the train had come from Banff with the Bow River meandering through it in one direction, and in the other, look into the Paradise Valley dominated by Temple Mountain, 11,625 feet above sea level.

One of the most thrilling of the many automobile trips from Lake Louise was the ride into the Valley of the Ten Peaks, all snow covered, jagged and most picturesque, with Moraine Lake nestling at their base. This was not a trip for the timid, many times it seemed as if a foot to the right or left would send us crashing into the valley below.

Many of the party visited some of the camps in the vicinity, camps luxuriously fitted up, and most comfortable and attractive. Dorothy Drake. (To be continued)

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, Nov. 5.—With the elections over, and explanations in order from all quarters, attention of official Washington is turning to the publicity features of the income tax law.

The test suit of the government against two daily newspapers is of absorbing interest here because of its ultimate political effect. While the publication of certain tax returns in the daily newspapers excited the readers of the big cities for a few days, those concerned over tax matters here are wondering what the public reaction would be to listing the tax returns of the leading citizens and business houses in the smaller communities where civic affairs have a more personal touch. This is a feature which has progressed at a more rapid rate than our emotional development.

The place which music holds in the improvement and cure of the mentally afflicted was emphasized by Mr. Van de Wall.

A native drama which will be truly national is being born in the United States, Professor Frederick H. Koch, director of the Carolina Playmakers predicted. Rural youth needs recreation as much as the city youth, according to Henry S. Curtis, director of hygiene and physical education for the State of Missouri. "A boy who is riding on a mowing machine does not get any better exercise than the girl who is running a typewriter," he said.

Training classes where parents may learn to play with their children were advocated by Mrs. A. H.

Reeve of Philadelphia, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, as a cure for the present crumbling of home life.

The recreation congress, an annual event, of which the one just ending is the eleventh, is made possible by the Playground and Recreation Association of America.

The recreation movement has a native origin in the United States.

To make good sportsmen of all

Americans, to help them all to learn to play the game, was the conception of the objectives of the national recreation movement, as expressed by Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times in opening the Congress, Mr. Hermann stated.

"Of all nations we know the least when to rest and play, and do neither systematically or to our profit,"

said Dr. Frank Alvah Parsons of the School of Applied Art of New York and Paris. "Complete rest, relaxation or entire change of physical action are essential to health, happiness and success. Scientification, standardization and acceleration are the new American trinity. We shall soon be incubating our descendants and will eventually be scientified out of existence, unless we give more heed to the humanizing influence which the recreation movement represents."

Labor wants leisure to live but not to loaf, declared Matthew Woll, vice president of the A. F. of L. "Industry neglects the human factor," said Mr. Woll. "It is becoming dehumanized.

The labor movement and the recreation movement have a common objective in the pursuit of happiness."

Success of the Wilkes Barre Community, bettering of local conditions, improvement of public spirit, and increase in culture, were all credited to the effect of recreation on the local life of his community by Col.

E. G. Smith of the Wilkes Barre, Pa.

Times Leader. "Recreation is the

THE VISITING NURSE

The place of the visiting nurse in the community health program of Newton will be the theme of the interesting program which has been planned for the coming Annual Meeting of the Newton District Nursing Association.

The meeting will be in the form of a dinner to be held at the Newton Centre Woman's Club House, 1280 Centre street, Newton Centre, at 6.30 P. M., on Monday, November 10, 1924. The price of the dinner will be $1.00 per plate, and reservations must be made not later than November 7 at the office of the Newton District Nursing Association, 12 Austin street, Newtonville (Newton North 4880-W). All who are interested are invited to make reservations.

The exhibit of the District Nursing Association which attracted so much favorable attention at the recent Newton Community Welfare Conference will be shown at the meeting, and will be an added feature of interest. The exhibit, which was prepared under the direction of Miss Marie M. Knowles, pictures, in a series of doll scenes, "A Day With A Visiting Nurse."

Miss George W. St. Amant, president of the Association, will preside at the annual meeting. A brief business meeting will be held, with the submission of reports of the year's service and the election of officers for the coming year. Most of the time, however, will be given to the speakers of the evening.

Mr. George M. Angier, president of the Newton Central Council, will bear the greetings of the Council to the Association and to its new executive, Miss Elizabeth Ross, who came from New Haven to assume the position of Superintendent of the Newton Association on November 1.

Dr. Henry F. Keever, as a representative of the medical profession, will speak on the work of the District Nursing Association from the standpoint of the physician.

Mr. Cheney C. Jones, Director of the New England Home for Little Wanderers, will discuss "The Need for Preventive Work for Children." Mr. Jones is one of the leading social workers of Boston, and he has recently come to Newtonville to live, so that he brings both a local and a professional interest to the discussion of Newton's problems.

Miss Elizabeth Ross, the new Superintendent, will speak on "Our Part in the Community Program for the Coming Year."

Miss Ross brings to her position in Newton a thorough training and broad experience in public health nursing. She is a Boston woman, her parents having been residents of Roxbury and she herself having lived most of her life in Greater Boston.

In 1907 she entered the Newton Hospital Training School, graduating in 1910. After graduation Miss Ross took up Public Health work immediately, going first to Brattleboro, Vermont, as visiting nurse with the Brattleboro Mutual Aid Association.

A year later she came back to Boston to work with the Woman's Municipal League as supervising nurse for the experiment which was at that time being launched under the name of the Household Nursing Association. This Association is now a flourishing organization with its headquarters on Newbury street, Boston.

From the Household Nursing Association she went to Norwood, Mass., to undertake the supervision of the health work in the Norwood Civic Association. This was the first experiment in Health Centers in the country, and Miss Ross stayed with the Norwood Civic Association for five years building up the public health work, at the same time serving on many of the local and State Committees for Nursing, especially that of the American Red Cross.

At the time this country went into the war Miss Ross was called by the National Red Cross to take the position of Director of Nursing for the New England Division. She served in this capacity from October, 1916, when this type of decentralization was first established for the war program, until the spring of 1919, a little over three years and one-half. This covered the whole active war period when the task of the Red Cross was recruiting of nurses, and the New England Division all through that period recruited about one tenth of the Red Cross enrollment.

At the time this country went into the war Miss Ross was called by the National Red Cross to take the position of Associate Superintendent of the New Haven Visiting Nurse Association in 1921. At that time New Haven was carrying on an experiment with the Health Center, and it was for this that Miss Ross went to New Haven, to undertake the nursing supervision for the Visiting Nurse Association experiment which ended during the year of 1923. The New Haven Nursing Association is an organization with a large staff of fifty nurses and is one of the most up-to-date and progressive nursing organizations in the country.

Miss Ross has come from New Haven to Newton just at the time when the Newton Association is ready to begin a program of reorganization, as recommended in a reorganization made last spring by Miss Frances V. Brink of the National Organization for Public Health Nursing.

The officers of the Newton District Nursing Association are: President, Mrs. George W. St. Amant; Vice-President, Mrs. F. E. Stanley; Secretary, Mrs. George M. Angier; Treasurer, Mrs. Charles L. Smith; Assistant Secretary, Mrs. Justin Whittier; Auditor, Mrs. Harry P. Bradford; Superintendent, Miss Elizabeth Ross; Miss Marie M. Knowles, Associate Superintendent.

FARLOW HILL, NEWTON ANNOUNCEMENT

We desire to announce that we have just acquired the last available unimproved tract of six acres of land located on the top of Farlow Hill, Newton, which we will immediately subdivide into liberal building lots for single residences.

This property is located in one of the most highly restricted and established neighborhoods in Greater Boston and has every advantage including a commanding view of the country for miles around.

We have been able to purchase this property at a price which enables us to put real selling prices on these lots which average in size 10,000 square feet and range in price from $1800 to $4250.

—DEATH OF MR. NEWELL

Mr. Walter C. Newell, a resident of Newton for many years died last Friday after a long and serious illness at the age of 55 years.

For 24 years Mr. Newell was a letter carrier attached to the Newton Centre post office. Mr. Newell was a descendant of Major Luther Metcalf, who in 1792 built the colonial mansion on Village street, Medway, Mass., which remained the family homestead until 1895, when it became "The Village Inn." In 1895 Mr. Newell married Florence Adeline Phelps of Newton, who survived him; he also leaves one daughter, Esther Metcalf Newell, and a sister, Mrs. Harrison F. Hunt, of Medway.

Funeral services were held in the Chapel of the Congregational Church, Newton Centre, at noon Monday, Rev. E. M. Noyes officiating.

There were present at the services four officials of the Boston Post Office, delegated by Roland M. Baker, Postmaster, also representatives of the Boston Letter Carriers' Mutual Benefit Association, the United States Letter Carriers' National Association, the Newton Centre Post Office, and Newton Lodge, No. 92, I. O. O. F.

The interment was at Medway, Mass.

PUBLICITY METHODS

Newton Central Council To Hold An Interesting Series Of Conferences On Publicity Methods

A course of ten weekly sessions on the subject of "Publicity Methods in Social Work," will be given in the near future by the Newton Central Council, under the direction of Arthur Dunham, Executive Secretary of the Council, assisted by a number of publicity experts as speakers and leaders of discussion on special topics.

The purpose of this course is to help the welfare organizations of Newton to do better publicity and educational work. The course is intended primarily for board and staff members of Newton social agencies, but it is open to anyone interested, upon payment of the registration fee of one dollar. This fee will cover the cost of several pamphlets to be used in the course.

The first meeting of the class will be held at 3:30 P. M., on Wednesday, November 19, 1924, at 12 Austin street, Newtonville. At this meeting the members of the class will decide upon the day and hour for subsequent meetings.

Registrations for this course should be received by the Newton Central Council, 12 Austin street, Newtonville (Newton North 2717) not later than

Outline of Topics for Course

1. The A B C of Welfare Publicity. Special speaker, Robert W. Kelso, Executive Secretary, Boston Council of Social Agencies, and Chairman of the National Committee on Publicity Methods in Social Work.
2. Planning a Social Publicity Program.
3. Newspaper Publicity—The Boston Newspapers. Special speaker, (Continued on Page 9)

PREFERENTIAL VOTING

Some years ago the Voters of the City of Newton, after a great deal of Public discussion in the various parts of Newton, adopted by popular referendum the preferential voting method for the election of City Officers.

A bill to abolish preferential voting in Newton, sponsored mainly by citizens who were opposed to this method at the time of its original enactment, was passed by the last legislature and comes before the voters on referendum at the city election in December.

There is danger that this important question will be acted on by the voters without adequate consideration. It should be the subject of public meetings in all the wards of Newton.

The Good Government Club of Auburndale will hold a Public meeting open to all voters of Newton, at the Auburndale Club Hall, at 8 o'clock on Wednesday, November 19, for a discussion of this referendum. Mr. Rupert C. Thompson, Chairman of the Newton Republican City Committee, who will advocate a "yes" vote on the referendum will open the meeting. A "no" vote will be advocated by Alderman Geo. M. Heathcote. After which the meeting will be opened for general discussion to anyone who wishes to speak.

If you have a clear conviction as to how you should vote on this important question, you owe it to yourself and your neighbors to attend this meeting and state your reasons. If you are uncertain how you will vote, it is important that you come and hear the arguments for and against preferential voting.

MR. JEWETT HONORED

Eminent Sir Knight Asa C. Jewett who has just been installed as Grand Commander of Knights Templar of Massachusetts and Rhode Island was tendered his first public reception on Monday evening by Gethsemane Commandery of which he has been re-ordained for many years.

The event was opened to the ladies and at least four hundred members and ladies were present.

A most satisfactory dinner was served in the early evening in Temple Hall. While the members of Gethsemane Commandery held a short meeting the ladies were entertained by music in the banquet hall. Later the asylum was opened to the ladies for a splendid concert of vocal and instrumental music.

Mr. Jewett was presented with a sword, belt and chapron by the members of Gethsemane Commandery, Commander Buffington making the presentation. This was followed by a short exhibition by the drill corps, during which Captain Hyslop presented Mr. Jewett with a gold watch.

The affair was attended by the complete line of Mr. Jewett's personal staff.

and state your reasons. If you are uncertain how you will vote, it is important that you come and hear the arguments for and against preferential voting.

EASTERN STAR FAIR

The Palestine Chapter of the Eastern Star held a Fair last Wednesday and Thursday in Temple Hall, Newtonville, Sister Jennie Alexander, General Chairman.

The Pivot Bridge and Whist Table was in charge of Sister Charlotte Mansfield. The restaurant, in white, was in charge of Sister Robertina Delesdernier and the Food Table in charge of Sister Gertrude Robinson. The latter was filled with things for the Thanksgiving season. The Old Oaken Bucket filled with cider, and Barney Google with his corn balls were special features.

The Apron Table in red and white was in charge of Sister Margaret Babitt; the Linen and Fancy Work Table in charge of Sister Isabel Wilson; the White Elephant Table, in yellow and white, in charge of Sister Dora Sartwell. The helpers on this table wore yellow and white dresses and hats with white elephants on them.

The Game and Fortune Telling Table, always a favorite, especially with children, was of autumn colors with pumpkins and a wonderful paper turkey.

The Candy Booth in blue and gold was a large square booth in the center of the floor with a lighted pumpkin on top. This was in charge of Sister Wilhelmina Phillips.

The Infants' and Children's Table, a large square booth decorated in children's colors, blue and pink, looked like a large May basket, and was in charge of Sister Helen Briggs.

The Grab Table, in charge of Sister Kate Bennett, was a Southern Cotton Field with chairman and helpers wearing yellow crepe dresses. Dinah had an apron filled with good things for the children, and a plant stand held attractions for grown-ups.

The Fortune Teller and Game Table under the chairmanship of Sister Margaret Ross was kept constantly busy. Both afternoon and evening, Miss Annie E. Blakemore gave most pleasing vocal selections, and Miss Pillman presented her pupils in very attractive interpretive and toe dances.

The Pedlar's Parade by members of the Chapter was heartily enjoyed by all. Mrs. Everett Crawford was a wonderful Queen with train bearers. Mrs. Robin made a beautiful belle of 1917; Mrs. Bennett as an Apple Woman and Mrs. Holmberg as a Farmer deserve notice.

The Fair was a great success financially and socially.

HUNNEWELL CLUB

An attractive program has been prepared for the Sunday afternoon musical and tea on Nov. 16th. Jesus Maria Sanroma will be the pianist and Charles Bennett, baritone.

ANNUAL ROLL CALL

Newton Chapter of the American Red Cross Makes Its Annual Appeal for Membership

The American Red Cross, representing the American people, carries out the purposes for which it was organized and chartered by Congress through a group of unified Services.

Since the Armistice it has expended $50,000,000 for service to men of the Army and Navy and World War Veterans. It is now assisting more than 100,000 disabled veterans, and their families, each month. To 130,000 soldiers, sailors and marines on active duty it is giving the same help it gave during the war. It has 41,000 nurses enrolled for emergency—war, disaster, epidemic.

In the past forty-three years it has expended $33,000,000 for disaster relief; it has directed or participated in relief work in 220 disasters the past year.

Abroad it represents the American people in works of mercy when great catastrophes cause abnormal suffering.

Within the year 974 Red Cross public health nurses have aided in the care of the sick, guarded the health of children and fostered understanding of personal and community hygiene.

Sixty-five thousand women and girls have taken courses in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick; 13,500 children and 10,000 women have been taught the importance of proper use of foods.

More than 49,000 men, women, and youths have been trained to rescue and revive the drowning; 14,500 completed a course in first aid during the year and 150,000 were reached with demonstrations by the Red Cross First Aid Car.

Volunteer workers have produced in the past year 150,000 garments, 1,000,000 surgical dressings and 87,000 pages of Braille; have made 15,000 motor calls and fed 22,000 persons in canteen service.

In the Junior Red Cross 5,452,745 enrolled school children are learning the value of service. With the children of forty other countries they are creating bonds of mutual friendship and understanding.

In 500 communities the Red Cross Chapter is the only family welfare agency.

The Newton Chapter has always participated in these expenditures and has always offered these services to the people of Newton and will continue to do so.

The Newton Chapter desires to maintain undiminished its membership.

11. Lena Teocin, Grade VIII.
The Loss of the Birkenhead

If the delivery of these selections is any criterion for that of the remaining speakers, we feel assured of another very enjoyable Assembly hour. There are six more pupils to speak at the preliminaries.

Last Thursday the F. A. Day eleven defeated the Country Day School by a score of 35-0. Custer did good work for the F. A. Day, making two of the touchdowns Mullin, J. Brown, and Harrington also made one touchdown each, while Lyman kicked a goal. On Friday, Nov. 7, the Day eleven won its first victory over our greatest rival, Waltham. Last year we were heavily defeated by them, but staged our comeback a week ago today. The F. A. Day was successful in both its aerial and center rush attacks. The line easily held its men and was thus able to stop Waltham's end rushes.

The bride was gowned in white satin, her veil being caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a showy bouquet.

The bridesmaid was Miss Anna Walton, an aunt of the bride. Her gown was of peach Canton crepe with ostrich trimmings and she wore a black picture hat with ermine trimmings. Her bouquet was of tea roses.

The bride received her guests at a reception given by her mother, who wore taupe satin with fur trimmings, and by the groom's mother who wore grey canton crepe with steel trimmings. There were about one hundred guests present. Among these was Major Henry D. Cormerais, of the old Company C, 5th Infantry, with whom the groom served in France.

After a wedding trip to New York and Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Burns will make their home in Newton.

BURNS-MARCHANT

On Sunday afternoon, November 9th, at Boyd Park the Newton Pals clearly outplayed the Huron A. C. of Cambridge, defeating them by a score of 26 to 0.

The Newton Pals displayed a fine brand of football with every man playing his position exceptionally well. The work of the Pals' line was particularly encouraging as time and time again they tore gaping holes in their opponents' line through which the backs passed for long gains.

The all around end-play of Julian Dargon was one of the features of the game. Not only did he play a sterling defensive game but he also scooped up a fumble and raced 30 yards before he was downed on the one yard line. The ball was taken over on the next play.

John Mahoney also played a fine game in the line although handicapped with an injured ankle. The brilliant end running of Hughes and Aucoin together with the broken field running of Lyman and the savage line plowing of Arsenault was also a feature of the game. Simpkins played well for the Huron A. C. On Sunday afternoon, November 16th the Newton Pals will play the Newton High Junior Varsity, at Boyd Park and a good game is expected when these two evenly matched teams get together.

Second of a series of advertisements regarding the telephone situation in New England

Why?

The principal reason why we cannot go on furnishing adequate telephone service at present rates lies in the lessened purchasing power of the dollar as reflected in higher prices for materials and labor.

Up to the war period our dollar of income was pretty well adjusted to the dollar of outgo.

Since the war, while selling you telephone service from plant built at pre-war prices, we were able to make ends meet largely through improvements in equipment and operating practices, and partly through increased rates which gave us approximately fifteen per cent additional revenue, per telephone.

But this equipment, built at pre-war prices, has been more and more replaced by new equipment built at present-day prices; furthermore, the number of new telephones connected in the past five years is the largest in any equal period of our existence—an increase of thirty-six per cent for the company as a whole and of forty per cent for Massachusetts.

Telephone rates of five years ago, when the average cost of plant and equipment was $138 per telephone do not provide an adequate return today when the average cost of plant and equipment is $178 per telephone, and steadily increasing.

An increase in telephone rates is necessary, not only to attract the new money required to meet the demands for expansion, but also to keep up the present service.

Tennis

The girls' tennis tournament has reached the round before the semifinals with one exception. Peggy Firestone, who won the tournament for high school girls, conducted by the Newton Highlands Woman's Club, defeated Doris Rose 6-3, 6-3 in the school tournament.

Helen Andrews won over Barbara Bonelli 6-2, 6-2. Annalee Kneeland defeated Catherine Bolster. Eleanor Savage has yet to play Marian Young for this round.

Newton-Waltham

The Newton girls gained a second victory for this season, defeating Waltham 5-1 at Cabot Park, Wednesday.

During the first half Bryant and Spaford each made a goal for Newton. The Waltham girls put up a hard fight. Bingham succeeded in scoring a point. In the second half Newton came through with three more goals, ending the game with the score 5-1.

This is the first year Waltham has had a field hockey team, but they played like old veterans, showing remarkable skill. Their coach, Miss Sewall, deserves great credit. Chase, Pearson, Aubin, and Bryant shone for Newton.

Lasell

Both the Junior and Sophomore classes have elected their class officers for the present year as follows:

Junior Class—Elizabeth Saxton, 102 N. Ninth St., Richmond, Indiana, President; Mary F. Witschke, 379 Grand St., Newburgh, N. Y., Vice-President; Marion C. Flitch, 1165 Virginia Park, Detroit, Mich., Treasurer; Grace I. Wilder, 85 Hope St., Ridgewood, N. J., Secretary; Dorothy G. Denney, 20 Scotland Road, South Orange, N. J., Song Leader; Sarah L. Sophomore Class—Ella Richards, 22 S. Monroe Ter., Dorchester, President; Mary E. Williams, 41 Main St., Orange, N. J., Vice President; Miss E. Louise Mueller, 119 Marine Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., Treasurer; Amelia S. Norton, Highland Park, Wheeling, W. Va., Song Leader; Virginia Hight, 840 Broadway, Bangor, Me., Cheer Leader.

Tuesday afternoon the Lasell field hockey team went to Cambridge to play with the Radcliffe girls, Radcliffe winning.

Friday afternoon Dr. Leon N. Vincent will conclude his series of lectures on French literature, his subject being "Balzac—his eccentricities and Literary Career."

Sunday evening the usual vesper services at the Seminary will be omitted and the girls will attend the services at the Congregational Church in Auburndale where Mrs. Mary Ninde Gamwell, missionary from China will talk about "Ming-Kwong"—The City of Morning Light.

The following officers have been elected by the Lasell Missionary Society: Helen Albert, 604 S. Cherry St., Jefferson, Iowa, President; Lucile Hopkins, New Preston, Conn., Vice

Stearns School

Miss Walker who took her class to Boston a few days ago, gave a lantern lesson on "Boston," to all the fourth grades of this district on Monday.

The Eliot School health chart shows that no child in that building is more than ten per cent below normal weight.

Mrs. Kidder's health chart shows that every child is normal or above normal weight.

Miss Winter's class, Grade VI, put the largest amount in the bank last week.

Angier School

On Tuesday, November 11, the Angier School defeated the Boys Scouts Troop No. VII in a football game. The first quarter we had in our second team. As they could not withstand the Scouts at the end of the quarter our regular team went in to play. The score stood 13-0 then. It then began to climb up for Angier. Dick Robbins made the first touch-down. A fine goal-kick followed. The next two touch-downs were made by Lee Woolston. He also made two goal-kicks. Charles Leach made two more, each followed by a goal-kick. The score at the end of the game was 36-13 in favor of our school.

On Armistice Day, Tuesday, November 11, 1924, the fifth and sixth grade gave a very interesting assembly. It was an Armistice Day program. We sang three or four patriotic songs and there were some Armistice poems. We closed the exercises with the singing of the "Angier School Song."

At eleven o'clock the Angier School stood with bowed heads while Taps was sounded.

Newton High School

Immediate action is needed on the project of providing a girls' athletic field on the ground adjacent to that on which the new building will be erected. The plans for developing baseball and football for boys have accomplished little. Nothing definite has been done to date, nor does there seem to be anything in the process of doing with reference to the boys' side of the field.

The girls' field gives every reason for quick action. The construction of the new building will necessitate considerable grading, probably including some of the high land south of the new building, on the very area which it is desired to have developed.

Furthermore, the contractor who is to change the course of the brook two-thirds of the way to Hull street will soon be at work. It would seem to be a reasonable and economical course of action to have the remainder of the brook as far as Hull street covered at the same time and the land left in condition for a playing field for the use of high school girls. The distance is short, and the work never can be done so inexpensively as now, with the men and materials right at hand.

The proposed layout is the logical position for a girls' athletic field with reference to the school, gymnasium, trolleys, and trains. The need is truly great and a sound solution is close at hand.

NEWTON CHORAL SOCIETY

The rehearsal of last Tuesday evening was held at the West Newton Congregational Church with a good attendance. The change of place was only for one evening, and was made necessary because the vestry of Central church was engaged by the Woman's Club for a lecture by Rev. Mr. Lichliter. Hereafter the rehearsals will be at Central Church as usual each Tuesday evening.

DISTRICT NURSING

The Annual Meeting of the Newton District Nursing Association held at the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Monday evening of the current week was an occasion of great interest and much pleasure to the many members and their guests who attended the dinner and listened to the interesting speakers and to the reports of work done.

Mrs. St. Amant, president of the Association presided at the speakers' table. Mr. Cheney Jones spoke of the great service that the District Nurse renders to the community as she goes from house to house serving those who are sick and teaching the laws of health. Dr. Henry Keever said that the nurses are of great value to the people, that the pupil nurse gained her first real contact with sickness in the homes when she is allowed to help the District Nurse in her work. He also said that the nurse is of inestimable value to the doctor in his work with the people.

Mr. Angier spoke for the Newton Central Council and the Red Cross. He said that he felt that the District Nursing Association had made great progress during the past year and he congratulated the association on their having brought Miss Elizabeth Ross to Newton to take charge of the Health Work of their Association. Miss Ross was called upon to speak and she outlined the work which she felt should be done, especially for the babies and little children under school age.

The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were read and showed that a successful and busy year had been brought to a close.

Miss Knowles told of the work done in the Baby Clinics, especially among the foreign mothers. She also spoke of the many sick patients that the nurses had been able to minister to.

The Election of Officers for the coming year followed the reports and those elected were as follows: President, Mrs. Geo. W. St. Amant; vice-president, Mrs. F. E. Stanley; secretary, Mrs. Geo. M. Angier; assistant secretary, Mrs. Justin Whittier; treasurer, Mrs. Chas. L. Smith.

Directors: Mrs. G. B. King, Mrs. Herbert L. Felton, Mrs. H. F. Keever, Mrs. C. A. Lovett, Mrs. H. P. Bradford, Mrs. H. P. Converse, Mrs. Frank A. Day, Mrs. Ellery Peabody, Mrs. Samuel L. Powers, Mrs. A. K. Pratt, Mrs. F. W. Pray, Mrs. W. G. Snow, Mrs. Leverett Saltontall, Mrs. Fred H. Loveland, Mrs. Edwin L. Gibbs, Mrs. Samuel F. Tower, Mrs. Chas. Whittimore, Mrs. C. J. A. Wilson, Mrs. Phillip Nichols, Mrs. Chas. Gardner, Miss Kate Wheelock, Mrs. Richard Harte, Mrs. Frank Ashley Day, Jr., Mrs. Donald Flinchbaugh, Mrs. J. A. Moir, Mrs. Phillips Byfield, Mrs. J. M. Allen, Miss V. M. Dennis, Miss Louise Fessenden, Mrs. Wm. T. Glidden, Jr., Miss Gretchen Clifford.

DEATH OF MRS. BEARDSLEY

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Beardsley of Crescent street extend their sympathy to them in the death of Mr. Beardsley's mother, Mrs. Margaret D. Beardsley.

For many years, she had made her home in Lynn with her daughters but her many visits to the son's home had endeared her to numerous friends in the Newtons. She had reached the wonderful age of 90 years and 10 months and up to her death had not lost one faculty.

She had been ill only three weeks and with real courage she bore her illness and did not allow it to quench the spirit of good humor and the readiness of wit that characterized her to the last.

She was a woman who deeply appreciated her mercies and expressed her gratitude for them in many deeds of friendliness. She was a wonderful woman for her age and her splendid Christian spirit will live on with those who were near and dear to her.

The funeral service was held at her late home in Lynn, Rev. William A. Lawrence of the St. Stephen's Episcopal Church officiating. On Monday three of her sons accompanied the body to Bridgewater, Nova Scotia where funeral services were held at her eldest son's home on Wednesday. Burial was in the family lot in Bridgewater.

She leaves 5 sons, 3 daughters, 15 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

NEW HOME

Newton Lodge Of Odd Fellows Are Occupying Their New Home, The Former North Gate Clubhouse

On November 1st Newton Lodge No. 92, I. O. O. F., moved into its new quarters in the Northgate Club. The Northgate Club property has been acquired by the Odd Fellows' Building Association of Newton. The entire building has been completely overhauled, repaired and redecorated. The various branches of Odd Fellowship in this section of the City are to hold their meetings in this building.

The building is fully equipped for recreational purposes, having three bowling alleys, billiard and pool tables, card room, banquet room and kitchen and four tennis courts. It is splendidly equipped with exceptional facilities to carry on all lodge work—a beautiful high ceiling Lodge Room with stage for the degree tableaux, regalia rooms with ample storage space for all the varied paraphernalia used in the work.

Newton Lodge has had a wonderfully successful year, a greater number of candidates being admitted than in any year since its installation. A year of interesting and varied entertainment features and now to crown the fabric of Lodge History it is to have a splendid new home. The Lodge is fortunate indeed to have at its head, William A. Potter as Noble Grand, who has so successfully guided its course during a year full of achievement and accomplishment. Not only has he carried on the work in a manner that is worthy of the best traditions of Odd Fellowship but he possesses that peculiar quality of leadership, the ability to command the loyal co-operation of his fellow officers.

The Vice Grand, H. J. Gammons, that popular exponent of the strenuous life, bubbling over with new ideas, alive, awake, is an example of what real life in Odd Fellowship should be. Providence surely had Newton Lodge in mind when such a qualified right hand for the Noble Grand was provided.

The Warden, Ed. Falkner, and the Conductor, Wm. C. Campbell, both deserve commendation for the faithful, loyal co-operation they have given the presiding officer.

The Chaplain, Henry K. Buck, that genial, always pleasant, ideal Odd Fellow to whom we all look for guidance in the way of Odd Fellowship, has given, as always, his best, all that any man could, to the Lodge.

Those veterans of Odd Fellowship, Harvey Wood, Recording Secretary,

Frank Hunter, Treasurer and Arthur C. Smith, Financial Secretary, the bulwarks safeguarding the property and funds of the Lodge, giving their Co-operation whole heartedly and without stint.

The Supporters, with Charles M. Potter at their head, serving the Lodge in a number of capacities, advising the presiding officer from his wealth of experience, how to guide the Lodge safely and successfully through the difficulties of a busy and successful year, all have given of their time and energy without question.

The Sitting Past Grand, Ellwood Barker, the outside Guardian, Archie Wilson and all the other officers have done their share individually and collectively in giving the Lodge a year of outstanding accomplishment, infusing it with the spirit of enthusiasm, making it a live, vital portion of the community showing what Odd Fellowship at its best is and can be.

That splendid, outstanding figure of loyalty who has so long and so successfully carried on that difficult and at times discouraging work of Degree Master, deserves the utmost commendation of Newton Lodge and Odd Fellowship as a whole. Among a staff of officers, admittedly as splendid as ever arrived with a Noble Grand, Leonard Berry ranks with the best. The fame of the Third Degree staff of Newton Lodge might well be considered the highest testimonial any Odd Fellow could receive, and when added to this he has the love and good wishes of his fellow Lodge members nothing further can be said.

Newton Lodge has passed thirty-seven years in its old quarters, years that carried through times of distress, disaster and change. Holding up its head with high-precision courage, battling ill fortune and distress, tearfully seeing its older members passing on, striving to relieve the widow and orphan left behind, welcoming the younger members into its fold. Newton Lodge has stood forth a shining example of what Odd Fellowship is.

May good fortune and success attend its move into new quarters. May the new location inspire it to greater efforts for the Good, the Right and the Truth. May this change make a milestone at the beginning of a new path to the Pinnacle of Odd Fellowship. The Brotherhood of Man.

ANNUAL BANQUET

The annual banquet of the Newton Catholic Club was held Wednesday evening in its hall at West Newton. Addresses were made by Rev. George P. O'Connor, director of the Catholic Charitable Bureau, archdiocese of Boston, and chaplain of the 101st Artillery during the World War; E. Marie Sullivan, corporation counsel of Boston, formerly a resident of West Newton; William G. O'Hare of the Boston School Committee and Mayor Edwin O. Childs of Newton.

There were selections by St. Bernard's Orchestra, under the direction of John Henley, and vocal numbers by the Belmont Male Quartet, well-known Boston K. of C. four.

A reception to the guests and clergy preceded the banquet. Pres. George P. Brophy, who is serving his second term in that capacity, was toastmaster. Associated with him in the preparation of the program are Dudley P. Tenney, John E. Riley, Thomas C. Donovan, Charles H. Landers and George M. Cox.

The club, founded under the leadership of Rev. Francis Cronin, at present pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Orient Heights, and 14 years curate at St. Bernard's parish, West Newton, in which the club started, has completed its 15th year. Rev. William T. A. O'Brien is now the spiritual director and the club had a most successful year under his guidance.

ARMISTICE DANCE

The sixth annual Armistice Night dance of Newton Post 48, American Legion, was held at the State Army, West Newton, on Tuesday evening, Nov. 11. At 11 o'clock a short memorial service for Newton's war dead was held with an appropriate ceremony.

A firing squad from Co. C 101st Infantry, M. N. G., under the direction of Capt. Thomas Hickey fired three volleys as a salute to the dead, and taps were sounded. The invited guests were Mayor Edwin O. Childs, Commander Leo M. Harlow and Adj't Dennis F. Haverty of the State department of the American Legion and others. Among the features were specialty dances by Velma Sullivan and Dorothy Martin, child dancers of Auburndale, and vocal numbers by the Keith Singers. The executive committee comprises Frank L. Wilcox, chairman; Edwin Clark, treasurer; Joseph Buckley, James Buckley, Leonard Jackson, Frank Gaw, David Marion, Julius Ramm, Russell Viles, Matthew Hurley, Thomas A. Franey, Joseph Beattie, Clarence Hockridge, John J. Pendergast and Leo Taffe.

POLICE COURT

In Court Monday morning Judge Bacon sentenced Edward Guinasso of Concord Square, Boston, to three months in the House of Correction for operating an automobile while he was under the influence of liquor, fined him $100 for operating an automobile after revocation of license, and $10 for being drunk, and placed on file a charge of operating without lights. He appealed and was held in $100. He was arrested by Patrolman W. Whalen.

Miles Keddy of 33 Elliot street, Watertown, charged with being drunk and with operating an automobile while he was under the influence of liquor, on the complaint of Patrolman McDonagh, has his case continued until November 18.

Dr. Edward Samuel Niles, D. M. D., of 60 Elmwood street, who for many years has been a successful dentist in Copley Square and Commonwealth avenue, Boston, has so far recovered that he is receiving patients at his home office, 62 Elmwood street, Newton Corner.

The Commonwealth is to be congratulated on the wisdom and foresight of its able secretary, Hon. Fredric W. Cook, on whose recommendation, three years ago, the Legislature enacted the present statute under which the Governor was authorized to fill any vacancy which might occur in our representation in the United States Senate until the next regular election. In this case, this statute not only saves the State the expense of a special election, estimated at $300,000, but it also prevents the immediate return to the Senate of Mr. David I. Walsh, who, at a special election, would certainly have been elected.

At the coming city election there will be two questions on the ballot—one relating to the preferential form of voting, the other on the sale of non-intoxicating liquors. We shall discuss the first a little later in the month, and merely refer to the second at this time to call attention to the absurdity of the Massachusetts statute which requires each municipality to vote on the issuance of licenses to sell liquor containing not more than 2.75% of alcohol in face of the Federal Law limiting such percentage to one half of one per cent.

If the city government had taken the precaution of looking up precedents, the situation whereby it refused to accept the perfectly proper resignation of President Hollis might not have taken place. In point of fact, Alderman Hollis ought to have submitted his resignation immediately after the primary, and given time, thereby to have his successor elected by the people at the coming city election.

Children's Book Week can best be observed by giving careful attention to the reading our sons and daughters are doing. Some years ago we noticed the son of one of our prominent clergymen purchasing at a news stand a copy of a magazine, which has since been barred from public sale by reason of its salacious nature. Parents cannot be too careful in this matter.

Alderman Ball has considerable courage to present another "single residence" zoning ordinance, in face of the attitude heretofore taken by Alderman White and Mayor Childs. Some day the ordinance will be changed to comply with the wishes of a majority of our citizens, but we have little hope of its consummation under the present administration.

The Good Government Club of Auburndale is setting a fine example to the rest of the city in holding an open debate on the question of retaining the preferential form of voting in this city which is to be settled at the coming city election in December.

We are glad to note that some interest is taken in the effort to correct the failures of the direct primary law and to bring about the short ballot.

History will rank United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge as one of the great men of his day and generation.

Congratulations to Newton Lodge I. O. O. F. on entering its new home on Waltham street, West Newton.

INDOOR CHATAUQUA

The annual Indoor Chataqua and Festival at Centenary M. E. Church, Auburndale, has become an established community event.

Led and directed by the pastor of the church, Rev. Earl E. Harper, the chataqua program has come to assume the proportions of a first class lyceum course, while the festival, from the standpoints of decorations, booths, lights, articles for sale, and unique novelty features has attracted the attention of thousands of people in the Newtons and elsewhere.

This year the program, running as usual for three consecutive nights presents the following talent:

Wed., Nov. 19: Troy P. Gorum, well known negro baritone recitalist of Springfield. Mr. Gorum has given recitals in Aeolian Hall, New York, and Music Hall, Philadelphia. He brings as assisting artists, James K. Smith, violinist and Ruth Johnson Reid, pianist.

Thursday, Nov. 20: Miss Florence Day, unusual reader, interpreter and actress of short plays; Gladys Berry, well and favorably known 'cello soloist; Hazel F. Tuthill, soloist in the Christmas oratorio and the Holy City at Centenary Church, and now for the first time heard in secular concert; and Mrs. F. E. Leland, accomplished and musically organist of the church.

Friday, Nov. 21, a popular entertainment by the Weber Male Quartet, Franklin Field, baritone of this organization is well known as soloist at Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, and as special soloist at oratorio productions at Centenary Church. Assisting the quartet will be Harlan A. Riker, flutist, playing part music of his own composition. Mr. Riker and the soloists of the quartet will be accompanied by Rev. Harper.

Special interest attaches to the festival this year in that Centenary Church, facing necessary enlargement and expansion of its plant, has purchased all the vacant land next to the present building. Whatever profits accrue from the chataqua will be applied directly to the purchase price of this land. A very large stock is assured the buying public, much of it of the hand made variety unobtainable in stores. Christmas articles will be in abundance, besides staple articles of apparel, food, household utensils, etc.

MEN'S CLUB

The Men's Club of West Newton, one of the most influential organizations of its kind in the city held its annual meeting last evening at the Second Church, West Newton with a large attendance.

After the usual banquet, there was a short business meeting at which satisfactory reports were presented by the treasurer, secretary and zoning committee and these officers elected:

President, Norman W. Bingham, Jr.; Vice-President, John A. Paine; Secretary, Carl E. Pickhardt; Treasurer, Roland F. Gammons.

Judge Thomas Weston, the retiring president, then introduced his successor and Mr. Bingham announced the appointment of the following committees: Zoning, Henry Whitmore; chairman, Thomas Chalmers, R. F. Gammons; Thomas Gorham, Charles E. Hatfield; Membership, William F. Chase, chairman, H. B. Patrick, C. J. Bowen, A. T. Haskell, C. P. A. Cunniff; Richard B. Cole, J. B. Ramm, F. H. Barton, Harry D. Cabot, Fred S. Sawyer, A. C. Dunmore, Village, Donald Macomber, chairman, C. F. Leatherbee, A. T. Haskell, William Kellar, Edwin H. Rogers, Paul Scarborough, Charles E. Gibson, Library, Herbert M. Cole, chairman, Thomas Weston, F. J. Fessenden, Charles E. Lauriat, Jr., Charles E. Hatfield, John A. Potter, Charles S. Gibson, Fred S. Pratt.

Mr. Edward Dana, general manager of the Boston Elevated Railway then gave an interesting talk on the growth and organization of that public utility and it was followed by a series of motion pictures showing some of the difficulties the Elevated has to contend with in maintaining its service.

A GOOD MOTHER

Mrs. Sarah Louise Horne, wife of Isaiah Horne of Prince Edward Island and daughter of William and Sarah MacAdams, was laid to rest in the Newton Cemetery, November 11, 1924. Mrs. Horne was born May 23, 1842 and died November 9, 1924.

She leaves to mourn her departure her husband, Isaiah Horne, and nine living children. Her eldest son, Albert, is laid in a missionary's grave in Africa; Samuel, her second son, is laid to rest in New Richmond, Wisconsin; Elizabeth, Mrs. Frank A. Jackson, of West Newton, her devoted eldest daughter, with whom she has made her home for several years; John R. of Jacksonville, Florida; Isaiah, of Souris, P. E. I., veteran of the great war; Lemuel of P. E. I., veteran of the Spanish American War; William of Marblehead, Mass., Annie, (Mrs. W. M. McCarthy) of Jacksonville, Florida; David H. of Jacksonville, Florida; James F. of Walpole, Mass. and her youngest, Hattie (Mrs. Lyman Davis) of Hyde Park, Mass.

Thirty-three grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren respect her memory.

All who knew her loved her dearly, our most devoted mother—she was our inspiration.

ENGLAND'S CATHEDRALS AND SCENIC BEAUTY

A new lecture of informative power and beauty on "The Glory of England, her Cathedrals and Scenic Beauty," will be given by Frederick Parsons, Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts, at the Boston Public Library on Thursday evening next. The doors are open at 6 P. M. The lecture, at 8 P. M. prompt, will occupy seventy-five minutes and will be illustrated with 150 new and specially-made slides colored by the lecturer.

Mr. Parsons is a resident of Waban who lived for thirty years in England. The lecture-matter and slides are part of the fruits of a four-months' summer vacation in England, covering the cathedrals and parts visited. The lecture is free to the public, entrance on Boylston street.

ALDERMEN MEET

The aldermen held an adjourned meeting on Monday night for the purpose of declaring the result of the state election in this city.

A large number of jurors were drawn for service at the Cambridge court—for the Criminal session on Dec. 8, Joseph A. Kirchbassner of Carter street, and Albert J. Stuart of Channing street were chosen. For the criminal session on Dec. 1, John R. Kyte of Margin street and John F. Faherty of Centre street were drawn. For the civil session on Nov. 17, M. H. Guleas of Chestnut hill and Archie C. Burnett of Waban avenue were selected. For the civil session on Dec. 1, Ellis L. Gates of Windsor road and Edward A. Winsor of Chestnut hill were selected.

Mayor Childs sent in recommendation of the City Solicitor that $730 be added to the award given Mrs. Olive T. Spencer for land taken for the Myrtle street school, for $4840 for laying water mains, $600 for new curbing, $400 for resurfacing streets, $5000 for outside charges Street Dept., $350 for elementary evening school and $200 for Americanization work, all of which were approved by the board.

Fred C. Woodward petitioned for right to run a bus line from Upper Falls to Chestnut hill.

The traffic officers asked that they be furnished winter uniforms by the city.

Petitions were received for numerous sewers in the vicinity of Waltham and Crafts streets.

The board gave leave to withdraw on the petitions for change of zoning districts at land on River and Elm street and also refused to widen the streets at that point. A hearing was assigned for Dec. 1, on establishing a building line at this point.

The board revoked the victualler license of Joseph Arduino on Langley road as requested by Chief Burke.

Alderman Ball put in an amendment to the zoning ordinance changing the present "private residence" district to a single residence" district.

An order was adopted calling for the usual city election to take place December 9th. The ballot this year will include aldermen at large and ward aldermen, members of the school committee from wards 2 and 5 and two referenda, one relative to retaining the present preferential form of voting and the other the usual question of licensing the sale of non-intoxicating liquors.

President Hollis, who has been elected a representative to the General Court, presented his resignation as an alderman to take effect on December 31, but the board refused to accept it on advice of the city solicitor.

POLICE NOTES

Mrs. Katherine S. Brown of Newton, who represents herself as a magazine writer and is now serving time in Sherborn for larceny in Suffolk county by means of a worthless check, pleaded guilty in superior criminal court, East Cambridge, Tuesday, to larceny of $300 from the Newton Savings Bank with a worthless check and was sentenced to 18 months in the house of correction. The new sentence will begin at the expiration of her present term.

Mrs. Brown, who is about 50 years of age and of refined appearance, told the court that she had a good husband and that it was only when she was under the influence of drugs she committed these offenses. She is known as a drug addict and has a criminal record that dates back to 1916.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor

The sudden and serious illness of Miss Grace M. Burt, editor of our Women's Club column, has greatly curtailed the amount of news from that source.

WABAN WOMAN'S CLUB

Under the auspices of the Education Committee of the Waban Woman's Club a free lecture will be given in the Angier School on Tuesday, Nov. 25, by Mr. Payson Smith, Commissioner of Education, on "Preparing Our Children For Life, and the Antioch College Plan." An informal reception will be held after the lecture for Mr. and Mrs. Carl Tenney, and the teachers of the school.

HOME DECORATION

The State Division of University Extension is offering a course of six lectures in Interior Home Decoration at the Newton Catholic Club. At 7:30, Friday evening, November 14th, the first meeting of the class will be held. The instructor in this course is Miss Lillian Phillips, an instructor at the Massachusetts Normal Art School. In former years Miss Phillips has conducted classes at Columbia University and at Simmons College.

The purpose of this course is instruction in the fundamental principles which underlie successful home decoration. It is Miss Phillips' aim to present material which will be of practical value and within the reach of all pocketbooks.

Some of the subjects to be covered in the six lectures are: color and the planning of color schemes; woodwork and wall treatment; floors and floor coverings. These and other subjects studied will be treated with reference to their suitability, durability, cleanliness, and artistic effect.

The State will award certificates to students who satisfactorily complete the course. A small enrollment fee will be charged.

GIRL SCOUTS

"Pioneers"

One of the most interesting of the "out of doors" Merit Badges is the Pioneer. Camping, and everything to do with camping has a fascination today for almost everyone, and this test for the Pioneer Merit Badge gives the Scout a pretty good idea of how to live in the open.

The test was given last Saturday at Camp Mary Day to fourteen scouts by Mr. Edward Ovington, who has been a leader in the Norumbega Council Boy Scouts for so many years. Some of the girls built miniature lean-to's while others erected a practical lean-to which they hope to occupy in the spring when they have their "overnight hikes in the open" for that part of their First Class test. The test includes the following points:

Tell four things that must be considered in choosing a camp site.

Know how to use a saw, an axe, a hatchet.

Know how to select and fell a tree for building purposes.

Know fork and a sapling and their uses.

Build a shack suitable for four occupants.

Make a latrine, an incinerator, a cache.

Make a fire place for heating and cooking purposes and cook a simple meal over it.

Know how to tell the direction of the wind.

Know how to mark a trail.

Tell what to do to make water safe for drinking if there is any question as to its purity.

Captain Collins and about 20 scouts from the Highlands troop spent last Saturday at Camp Mary Day. They arrived at camp after hiking from the car line in Wellesley—about eleven o'clock, and spent a very happy day in the open.

Woman's Association

The Women's Association of Central church held a meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 12 at 2:30 P. M. Mrs. Francis J. Flagg was the leader and had spared no effort to have the occasion one of interest and charm. The room was made attractive with Chinese rugs, embroideries and other art pieces.

Among the guests was Miss Sarah Huong, a Chinese student taking the medical course at Boston University. Next year she expects to return to Foo Chow. Miss Huong sang in Chinese and gave descriptions of Chinese costumes. Mrs. Lillie Potter of Lasell Seminary and Mrs. Walter of Auburndale assisted with the program. Musical selections of Chinese character were rendered by Mrs. J. Payson Allen.

The subject for the afternoon was "Ming Kwong," a book written about an imaginary city in China, weaving into the narrative true incidents of the missionary work in that country. Mrs. Walter reviewed a portion of the book, taking as her theme, "A Gleam in the Dark." In "The Flaming Torch" Mrs. Flagg had written a dramatization of some of the events of "Ming Kwong." As Mrs. E. A. Rust sounds the witching hour of twelve on her gong, Mrs. S. L. Sholley represents a modern highly educated Chinese girl, and Mrs. E. K. Titus, taking the part of Sue Gladwin, an early missionary, awake and are bewildered at meeting each other. The young student, with her story of the enlightenment that has come to her land, is a revelation to the quaint lady who knew only the China of superstition. The changed conditions mean the fruition resulting from effort and sacrifice and are the fulfillment of divine promise. Mrs. Sholley rendered her part with a charming naïveté and with feeling. She wore a beautiful Chinese costume loaned by Mrs. Stuart Hill. Mrs. Titus was dressed in an old fashioned gown of her mother's. Mrs. J. Walter Allen was chairman of the tea. About one hundred were present, including a number of young girls.

FATAL ACCIDENT

Cromo Melidio, a 10-year-old grammar school boy, son of James Melidio of 39 Auburn street, West Newton, who was struck Monday afternoon by a truck on Auburn street, near his home, in front of the truck and before the machine could be brought to a stop was knocked down. The boy's leg and skull were fractured and he sustained multiple bruises and lacerations. He was taken to the Newton Hospital, where he was immediately placed on the danger list and where he died.

NEWTON ROTARY CLUB

A large group of Rotarians was present at the Newton Club on Monday to greet Elmer Hubbard, of Pawtucket, R. I., the Governor of this, the 31st district, and the speaker of the day. In addition there were present also M. Frank Lucas and Edward P.
O'Brien, both candidates for election to membership and also three men from Watertown who were active in the formation of a club there.

Mr. Hubbard's theme was Rotary education or interpretation. He touched somewhat on the history of the club which now embraces 28 countries stating that the most rapid growth was now in Italy and the United States. In speaking he named six objects or ideals of Rotary, as follows:

1. The ideal of service as the basis of all worthy enterprise.

2. High ethical standards in business and professions.

3. The application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal business and community life.

4. The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service.

5. The recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve.

6. The advancement of understanding, good-will, and international peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men.

In closing he emphasized the need of that greatest of altruistic movement—international friendship.

RED CROSS

Newton Chapter Hears Interesting Reports and Elects Officers at Annual Meeting

The work of the Home Service Section of the American Red Cross in Newton still makes heavy demands on the time and money available, according to the report read at the Annual Meeting of the Newton Chapter, held at the Community Welfare Centre, 12 Austin street, Newtonville, on the evening of October 22, 1924, Mr. G. M. Angier, presiding.

The report of Mr. Jameson, Chairman of the Home Service Section and that of Mrs. Hull, Executive Secretary, brought out many interesting facts. One hundred and thirty families were served, and twenty-eight of them were never known to the Red Cross before. Tuberculosis and mental cases cover a long period of time. Many adjustments of legitimate claims were made in cases where great suffering would have followed if there were no one to help. Two claims with the British Government were followed up—and their application forms are even more complicated than ours, hard as it may be to conceive. All these things and many other complicated problems require a constant exercise of skill and judgment. The Home Service Section has also been co-operating with the American Legion.

Miss Simond, the Director of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, reported on the classes which have been carried on in the schools under the direction of the School Department. Many of the girls joining the classes were Girl Scouts working for the merit badges, and girls interested in the nursing profession. Forty-six of the fifty girls enrolled last year completed the course and received the Red Cross certificate. Some instances were cited of the very practical way in which the girls of the Vocational High School have put the course into use in their own homes. There are four classes at present in the High School, held for the first time during school hours. As the girls in the grade schools are not mature enough for the regular course, classes in practical hygiene have been started. As an example of this, 350 pupils were taught last year to give artificial respiration.

Reports were received from the Branches, and the following Directors were elected:

Mr. George M. Angier, (Chairman, Newton Chapter); Mrs. George M. Angier, (Chairman, Production Committee, Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden, (Chairman, Newtonville Branch); Miss Simond, the Director of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, reported on the classes which have been carried on in the schools under the direction of the School Department. Reports were received from the Branches, and the following Directors were elected:

Mr. George M. Angier, (Chairman, Newton Chapter); Mrs. George M. Angier, (Chairman, Production Committee, Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden, (Chairman, Newtonville Branch); Miss Simond, the Director of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, reported on the classes which have been carried on in the schools under the direction of the School Department. Many of the girls joining the classes were Girl Scouts working for the merit badges, and girls interested in the nursing profession. Forty-six of the fifty girls enrolled last year completed the course and received the Red Cross certificate. Some instances were cited of the very practical way in which the girls of the Vocational High School have put the course into use in their own homes. There are four classes at present in the High School, held for the first time during school hours. As the girls in the grade schools are not mature enough for the regular course, classes in practical hygiene have been started. As an example of this, 350 pupils were taught last year to give artificial respiration.

Reports were received from the Branches, and the following Directors were elected:

Mr. George M. Angier, (Chairman, Newton Chapter); Mrs. George M. Angier, (Chairman, Production Committee, Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden, (Chairman, Newtonville Branch); Miss Simond, the Director of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, reported on the classes which have been carried on

NEWTON LOSES

—Medford won a 17 to 6 victory over Newton in a Suburban League football game Saturday afternoon on its own grounds.

—After an exchange of punts in the first half a series of rushes worked the ball up the Newton 25-yard line. A forward pass, Ellis to Herb, netted 10 yards, and a six-yard advance by Hormel took the ball to the nine-yard line and Ellis went over for the touchdown.

—Medford got a second score in the first period when Spain fumbled the ball on his 5-yard line. Medford then was penalized 15 yards for holding, but this was made up by a gain by Ellis. Hormel kicked a field goal. Another touchdown followed on a forward pass and four line plunges.

—In the fourth period, Medford showed signs of weakness and Newton registered four first downs in a row. A forward pass, Lyons to McCullough, made 12 yards, landing the ball on the Medford three-yard line. Hall went over for the touchdown on the fourth try. Gilligan failed at the point after touchdown.

NEW CHURCH EDIFICE

Christian Scientists Erecting a Fine New Building on Walnut Street, Newtonville

Ground has been broken for the new Christian Science Church, corner of Walnut and Otis streets, Newtonville, and by Thanksgiving the foundations should be in place. This latest addition to Newton's ready there.

family of churches promises to be a notable one, not only in respect to interior innovations, but in its striking exterior, which, in its architectural features, is a departure from neighboring types.

As seen by the illustration, the style is a Colonial adaptation of the Classic, worked out with red brick and contrasting stone trimmings. The result is one of great simplicity and dignity.

It is in the interior, however, that there are the greatest variations from the usual church interior. This is most noticeable in the treatment of the floor and seats. The floor is slanting, with seats in semi-circular arrangement, this being the form adopted in auditoriums where ideal conditions of seeing and hearing are desired. The ceiling carries what is known as the three point arch. As (Continued on Page 9)

THE CITY ELECTION

Little interest is being manifested in the coming city elections, nomination papers for which must be filed this afternoon prior to five o'clock.

Alderman Ball will retire in Ward 1, and Dr. Thomas M. Gallagher will undoubtedly be unopposed for the vacant seat. Ward alderman John C. Madden will be returned without opposition.

In Ward 2 it is expected that Alderman-at-large Roy V. Collins and Ward Alderman Daniel O'Connell will be candidates for re-election, the latter being opposed.

In Ward 3, Alderman-at-large Sinclair Weeks will be unopposed. Ward alderman Richard T. Leahy will have an opponent as Mr. William Kellar of Webster street will be a candidate. His nomination is the result of a wide spread demand among the voters of the ward, who believe he possesses the qualifications for such office, being a successful business man of unquestionable quality and integrity.

In Ward 4, Alderman-at-large George M. Heathcote and ward alderman Perley Crosby will be candidates for re-election.

In Ward 5, Alderman-at-large Henry W. Ball and ward alderman J. Earle Parker are not expected to have any opponents for re-election.

In Ward 6, Alderman-at-large Randolph F. Tucker will retire and Henry M. Bliss of Chestnut Hill is slated to take his place. Ward alderman Norman F. Pratt will be returned without opposition.

In Ward 7, alderman-at-large Harry W. Fitts and ward alderman Henry D. Lloyd will be unopposed. The vacancy caused by the election of alderman-at-large Arthur W. Hollis as a representative will be filled by the 1925 board of aldermen.

Two members of the school committee decline further service, Mr. J. Everett Hicks of Newtonville, and Mr. George M. Angier of Waban, the latter being chairman of the present board.

Mr. George H. Tracy of Newtonville will be a candidate for Mr. Hicks' seat and Mr. William F. Coan of Newton Highlands will stand for the school committee in Ward 5.

THE BAGDAD BAZAAR

The Bagdad Bazaar which was held in the Newton Centre Woman's Club House on Wednesday and Thursday of this week under the auspices of the activities committee of the Newton Centre Woman's Club, Mrs. Helen A. Winslow, chairman.

The campaign is for a total of $6000 of which 80% will be used within the limits of Newton.

The program of work is as follows:

1. Nine special health classes held weekly in the Newton villages under expert medical and nursing supervision.

2. Physical defects corrected by operation, forty-five children directly benefited thereby.

3. Three nurses on duty for follow-up work in the homes during July.

4. Six children sent on vacations.

5. Milk furnished in homes and schools at a cost of $54.39.

6. Nurse on playground for one month during summer.

7. Through medical examination of all school children in first eight grades by four specialists from the Children's Hospital in Boston. The need for such examinations has been demonstrated by the health survey recently made by the Newton Central Council.

This work is financed by the sale of Health Christmas Seals.

POLICE COURT

In court Monday morning, a suspended sentence of three months in the House of Correction was imposed on John Marino of 62 Green street, by Judge Bacon, on a charge of selling intoxicating liquor to a 17-year-old boy. Marino was arrested by patrolmen Veduuccio and C. Feeley.

Dominic Mancuso of 100 Lexington street, West Newton, arrested by Sergt. Leehan and patrolmen King, Gaquin and Dungan, was charged with an illegal sale of intoxicating liquor and the case was continued until Saturday. At the juvenile session last Friday morning, Judge Brown of East Boston, sitting in the absence of Judge Bacon, had before him four boys and two girls, all charged with ringing false fire alarms, some on Hallowe'en eve and others since that time. The sextet were sternly rebuked by Judge Brown, who was at first disposed to have the expense of the needless runs of the apparatus paid for by the culprits, but because of the hardship this would impose on some of the parents he placed the children on probation in charge of Mrs. Celia Wellman to whom they will report during the next few months.

SCHOOL NOTES

Edited by DOROTHY DRAKE

F. A. Day Junior High School

Last Friday the F. A. Day warriors defeated Wellesley Jr. High in a contest which failed to furnish the quality of football which the F. A. Day has exhibited in previous contests.

The game started with the F. A. Day defending the south goal and Wellesley the north. Holbrook kicked off to the twenty-yard line, and after driving Wellesley back, finally scored a touchdown from Wellesley's ten. After this touchdown, J. Brown scored the extra point. In the second quarter Holbrook scored a touchdown and Brown drop kicked the goal. Just before the end of the half Cusman recovered a fumble on the ten-yard line, but the period ended before the ball was put in a scrimmage.

Shortly after the start of the second half James Brown carried the ball twenty yards for a touchdown, but was unable to make the extra point. William Stumpf made his first appearance as the man to kick off with a fifty-five yard drive. After Wellesley had been held on their twenty-yard line, J. Gilligan carried the pigskin across, but failed to catch the forward for the extra point. Stumpf kicked off to Wellesley's five yard line and the game ended. McGrath was referee and the periods were eight minutes.

We are scheduled to play Waltham Jr. High today at Claffin Field, and we hope to gain from them a more impressive victory.

On Friday, November 7, at Cabot Park, the girls' varsity team played the alumnae in a game of field hockey. The score was 6-1 in our favor. It was a very exciting game and we all hope that we shall also win the next game that we play.

Florence Hickey of the ninth grade presided at Assembly for the following program this week: Eleanor Colarullo, The Gettysburg Address; Eleanor Horton, Little Things; Harold Scholl, The Radio; Henrietta Kramer, One, Two and Three; Louise Landry, Cleaning the Furnace; Richard Wales, Violin Solos; Chester Cummings, Leap of Roushan Beg; Alice Herlihy, Forgetful Pa; Dorothy Whitney, Uncle Shaw's Pet Jug; Gladys Jerauld, The Blackberry Girl; Marjorie Mighill, Piano Solo.

Mr. Carr then announced that three speakers would be chosen from each of the three classes to speak at Assembly.

High School

The freshman girls coming from the Angier school, Waban, have the best posture record, as shown by the results of the Physical exams. The record was 12 A's, 2 B's, 4 C's and no D's. Second in line is the Hyde School of Newton Highlands. The record of its girls was 12 A's, 7 B's, 2 C's and 3 D's.

Lasell

On Tuesday afternoon, November 17, Dr. and Mrs. Winslow were at home to members of the Lasell and Woodland Park Faculties at their residence, 145 Woodland road.

On Thursday afternoon there is to be a field hockey game between the Lasell girls and the University of Maine team on the Lasell field.

Thursday evening Dr. Guy M. Winslow, Principal of Lasell Seminary, left on a short trip to Porto Rico.

The faculty and members of the Woodland Park School will hold open house on Friday afternoon, November 21st, at Woodland Park Hall.

Sunday evening Dr. Edward Payson Drew of Auburndale will speak at Vespers at the Seminary.

The Lasell Glee and Mandolin clubs are having regular practice work under the direction of Reverend Earle E. Harper of Auburndale. The leader of the Glee Club is Martha Fish of Canton, Mass., and the accompanist is Bernice Cunningham of Springfield, Mass. Miss Margaret Walrath of Gloversville, New York, is leader of the Mandolin Club and Ruth Shepard of Warren, Mass., is accompanist.

Mason School

Owing to a leak in the boiler of the Rice School heating plant, the school closed for a part of the week. It was unfortunate to have it happen on Education Week.

The eighth grade clubs—science, music, and English—held their first meetings on Monday afternoon.

The music club plans to study the different instruments of the orchestra.

In this, the members will have the help of charts, showing pictures, and Victor records purchased by last year's music club.

The science club members gave descriptions of what they had seen—i.e., a Vermont marble quarry, or an iron foundry.

The English club plan to put on a play at a later meeting.

Saturday, November 22, if the weather permits, the Mason captain ball team meets the Bigelow at the Newton Centre Playground at 10:30.

The Masons and the Highlands have had two games with scores of 9 to 3 and 8 to 3, a fair showing for each team of girls.

Education Week is being observed not only by regular work, but by special attention to the Governor's proclamation and the need for the best that can be had along educational lines for our future citizens.

Bowen School

There have been three assemblies in honor of Education Week. A patriotic program was given on Tuesday morning to which each room contributed one number. Wednesday afternoon Room 4 gave a play—Milk for All the World. Friday morning a story-teller from the New England Dairy Council entertained the children with stories. The ladies of the morning Americanization class read for the children on Thursday morning.

Many parents visited the school during the week to prove their interest and cooperation.

Hyde School

This has been Education Week in the school, and Wednesday and Thursday were designated as special visiting days for parents and friends of education.

Wednesday offered opportunities to observe the special classes at work, and many parents visited the classes in sewing, sloyd, and home hygiene. An exhibition of canned goods was held in the kitchen.

Other special features were opportunities to hear eighth grade music under the direction of Mr. Griffin, supervisor of music, and an explanation of the heating and ventilating facilities of the school by Mr. Williams, the engineer.

Dramatizations in connection with the regular school work were given in many of the grades.

A spelling match between the fifth grades proved an exercise of much interest. These are frequently held in the school and produce splendid interest in the subject.

This past month, there has been an unusual amount of interest shown in the School Savings Bank. There are at the present time 338 pupils registered as depositors in the Newton Centre Savings Bank. A great many pupils have accounts with other Newton and Boston Banks.

Mr. Peter T. Blake spoke in favor of modifying the setback line on California street to allow his building to be moved from its present location, where it encroached upon the Metropolitan parkway. His petition was opposed by J. L. Watson.

One of the best presentations of a case ever made to the city government was that of H. W. Morton on petition of Geo. T. Chubuck to allow a 2-car garage to be located within 4 feet of Braeland avenue, and the board did well in granting the permit.

One man questioned the matter of a sewer in Fenno road, but was assured by the city engineer that he was not affected by the proposed sewer.

One man spoke in favor of the sewer in Bridges avenue.

Hearings were held on numerous private garages, John Hickey opposing the petition of August Guernon; on the project of Mrs. B. E. Taylor objecting to that of Mrs. S. R. Wheeler on Grant avenue.

The hearings closed at 9 o'clock.

Major Childs sent in several recommendations for increase in appropriations, the most important being that of $11,000 for improvement of the Hyde Brook drain.

The Board of Health recommended sewer construction in the Taft avenue, Hazelhurst road and Waltham Street.

The City Engineer reported that he had acceded to the request of residents of a part of Islington road, and would resume its former designation as Malvern terrace.

Leave to withdraw was voted on petition of A. G. Kerr to change the zone in Coyne road, Ward 5, and similar action was taken on petition of M. E. Curtin for additional hackney carriage licenses.

The Waban Improvement society asked for change in the zoning ordinance so as to allow "single residence" zones and the matter was referred to a special committee to be appointed to consider that question.

Drains and sewers were authorized in private land of Warren street, Bridges avenue, Cabot street, Glenwood avenue, Parker street and Jackson street, and $5000 was voted for use of Dedham street.

The mayor was authorized to sell land owned by the city on Dover St., a hearing was assigned on laying out of Hunnewell circle and betterment assessments levied on Gay street, Tarleton road and Vineyard road.

The application of Robert B. McKnight, et al, for incorporation in the First Church Orchestra of Newton, Inc., was approved.

The following garage permits were granted:

attitude, however, as it voted to grant the petition.

There was quite a discussion over the petition of W. I. Nottage to change his property on Cook street from a general residence to a business or manufacturing zone. Mr. Nottage said that his land lay alongside of the railroad, and he had an opportunity to sell it for a light manufacturing business if the zone was changed. Mr. Wm. B. McMullin said he would oppose the petition unless it was enlarged so as to include his property as well.

MISS LUCY W. BURR

Miss Lucy W. Burr passed into the spirit life last summer. Her long continued and severe bodily afflictions prevented her from being popularly acquainted. Yet her genuine worth requires generous recognition.

Her gift to the Congregational Church of the church organ, presented as a memorial of her father and mother, witnessed every Sunday to the extent of her filial affection and her loyalty to the church. The gift was a fitting family recognition, for her father was one of the church's original members, was for many years, till his death in 1900, the foremost member in counsel and influence, a deacon for life, and the largest giver for support of the church and for our bene-volences, being a heavy contributor to the American Board, of whose prudential committee he was an active member. The Burr School is named for him.

Miss Burr was a worthy daughter of such a generous and valuable citizen.
She suffered much, and yet,
through the long and hopeless days,
she bore with courage and cheerfulness her lot which had so little of cheer as most persons regard cause for cheer.

She was generous and public spirited with her means, as the long list of bequests to religious and philanthropic institutions shows.

She had a deep appreciation of music and good writing, as she showed by her gratitude to friends who relieved her lonely and weary hours by satisfying her desire for such alleviation of her pitiful condition.

She was strong in her convictions of duty. She set a high value on the really worth while things in life. She made the best use of her ability and her means for the welfare of others.
She was worthy of high esteem by all."

READ FUND LECTURE

Dr. George E. Vincent, President of the Rockefeller Foundation spoke on Wednesday evening at the Hunnewell Club on "An Adventure in Public Health."

In vivid and dramatic words, the speaker gave an account of the stamping out of yellow fever in Cuba and in South America. His account was marked by wit and humor and was thoroughly enjoyed by all who heard him.

In conclusion he said that he had thus given a definite picture of the work of the Rockefeller Foundation in order to show that Health Education depends upon proper leadership, Government Authority, adequate funds, and eternal vigilance. Given these there is no limit to what may be accomplished.

The concluding lecture in the current series of Read Fund Lectures will be given at Hunnewell Club, Newton, on the evening of Wednesday, November 26, at eight P. M., by Mr. Loring Underwood,
President of The Boston Society of Landscape Architects. The title of Mr. Underwood's lecture is "Gardens of Old England." The lecture will be illustrated by direct color photographs made by the Auto-chrome process, taken by Mr. Underwood in 1922, which show the intimate relations between the English house and its garden. Many of the lovely old places photographed date back four or five centuries. The charm of these picturesque houses and gardens is portrayed so vividly that one feels the very atmosphere of England. Not only are the more extensive gardens shown, but the small gardens of the workingman are presented as well.
The illustrations will be accompanied by witty and instructive comment in
Mr. Underwood's distinctive comment.

HOLD ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The Fourth Annual Young People's Conference of the Norumbega District will take place in the Newtonville Central Congregational Church, on the afternoons and evenings of November 28 and 29.

Professor Herbert C. Mayer of Boston University is director.

The program offers a variety of subjects of interest, including talks on leadership, on the four-fold life, and on successful methods of young people's work in the church.

Among those who are to lead conferences and discussions are Hayden L. Straight of Newtonville, Professor Warmingham of Boston University, Miss Thelma L. Bishop of Newton Centre, Miss Lullona Barker of Watertown, and Erwin L. Shaver of the Congregational Education Society.

The purpose of this event is expressed in a nutshell by the words, "Here to learn, home to serve." Those who attend should be young people of potential leadership ability, able to receive new ideas and take such ideas back to their local churches.

C. C. Burr

In the first football game of the season Burr opposed Angier at Forest Grove Playground and won by score of 55-6. In the second game Burr played against Pierce and lost, score 9-0.

Tuesday, Nov. 18th was set apart at the Williams school as special visiting day during Educational Week. On this day about 175 parents and friends came to the schoolhouse.

On Thursday, Nov. 20th, parents and friends of the Burr school gathered in large numbers to witness the regular work of the school and show their special interest in educational matters.

The teachers of the Burr and her former pupils as well, were very much pleased to receive last week a

Bigelow School

Invitations to visit the school during Education Week were sent to the parents and friends of Bigelow pupils.

The response was very gratifying. Some came to see the class-room work, and many more to the special exercises in the Assembly Hall on Wednesday and Friday.

On Wednesday afternoon a very interesting program was carried out by Grades V, VI, VII and VIII.

Friday morning's program for Hall assembly included music by the school orchestra, Flag Salute, and American's Creed by the school, and an address by Mayor Childs.

In the afternoon Mr. Griffin was in visit from Miss Ruth Woodbury, who is on a one year's leave of absence from Burr kindergarten.

A party of twenty-five children of the 7th and 8th grades of the Burr school, accompanied by their teachers, recently attended the first of a series of Educational Concerts given by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Symphony Hall.

Next week the children of the Burr and Williams schools are to bring in their special donations of fruits and vegetables to be sent to the Welfare Bureau for Thanksgiving.

The following program was arranged and given by the eighth grade English Club under the leadership of Francis Barry as chairman:

1. Welcome to Guests, Chairman; 2. Meaning of Armistice Day (original essay) Kimball Ufford; 3. World War Stories, Mary Supino, Rodney Holden; 4. Woman's Part in World War (original essay) Elizabeth Henrick; 5. Poems of the World War, Mary Reed Thomas Thornton, Francis Blackwell and Hazel Lawrence; 6. Why America is Anxious for Universal Peace (original essay) Thelma Bailey; 7. The Bridge Builders (poem) Club; 8. Flag Salute; 9. America.

Members of the Club provided music on piano and four violins. An exhibit of World War souvenirs was under the direction of a special committee.

Newton Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The speaker at The Fellowship Club on Monday evening, November 24th, will be Mr. Charles F. Towne, who is associated with Mr. Winslow at Lassell Seminary. His subject will be, "America as it was, as it is, and as it may be." Supper will be served at 6:30 and all men are invited to come to the supper and to the talk which will begin at 7 o'clock.

The Blue Triangle Club will entertain the members' mothers and other guests on Monday evening, November 24th. A very fine entertainment chiefly by talent from the membership will follow the supper.

GOOD GOVERNMENT CLUB

A well attended meeting of the Good Government Club of Auburndale was held on Wednesday evening to discuss the question to be on our ballot at the coming city election, whether or the act repealing our system of preferential voting shall be approved.

Chairman Thompson of the Republican city committee spoke for the "yes" side; Alderman Heathcote sustained the "no." Evidently the audience was overwhelmingly on the side of "no." There was plenty of discussion from the floor. Alderman Hollis was a notable speaker for the "no" side, having been opposed to the plan originally, but being now satisfied, from his long service in the city government, that the law is good. Chairman Thompson conceded enough, in way of the theoretical excellence of the law and the practical results with a city government which he praised highly, to justify retention of the law. His only point against it was that it is "inoperable" and that vague criticism was not supported by a solitary fact.

Much was made for the preferential system that it takes partisan politics out of the city election and that lines of Republican and Democrat ought never to be drawn in city affairs. Under the preferential system, too, the government is kept closer to the people than if we return to the old system which makes it probable that management will return into the hands of a few.

The working of the plan is very simple, for all the voter is concerned about when marking his ballot is to mark first, second and other choices.

The counting is done by the election officers and need not bother the voter.

The case was made so strong for voting "no" and was so weak for voting "yes," that it was evidently clear to nearly every one of the audience that all the city ought to give an overwhelming "no" on December 9.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Edited this week by MISS EMMA D. COOLIDGE

In regard to the death of Miss Burt, Miss Coolidge, as a representative of the club women of Newton writes:

"The death of Miss Burt is not only a personal loss to me and to many other club women who were her friends, as well as associates, it is a club loss that we can only repay by thoughts of gratitude for her loyal service, and by expressing for those near to her our sincere sympathy and sorrow, and our high regard for her whom we all have lost, in this unexpected hour."

This is Education Week throughout our country, a week in which we have given pause to consider our problems, our progress, and our opportunities, in all that affects practical, as well as cultural, education. When one considers that in every town and city there have been in operation methods for bringing together those in charge of education and those who seek it for themselves or their children, it is inspiring to realize what a few days so given can accomplish. Here in our City there has been one approach made to our attention that has been most profitable, and we tender our thanks to Miss Chase, and the Library, for bringing to us the exhibition of worthwhile and entertaining books for young people, something that will gain in value as the Christmas season approaches.

Newton has cause to be proud, also,
of the Education Meeting held on Monday evening, in the school hall of the Bigelow building.

State Federation

A complete account of the Fall Meeting held at Lowell on November 19 will be given next week.

Meanwhile a message from Mrs.
Robert Culbert, chairman of Legislation, urges club women to inform themselves upon the laws in operation throughout the country on Marriage

The monthly meeting of the Executive Board was held on last Monday morning at the Newton Club, with the President, Mrs. Ernest Cobb, in the chair. In routine business, the Treasurer's report showed a good working balance, which is always a cheering way to begin a year's plans.

Satisfactory progress was reported on the project of providing for a suitable sports-field for the use of the girls, while arranging for the new High School building. The school and city authorities have expressed willingness to consider the needs of the girls for athletic grounds, in appropriating funds for the work on Laundry Brook, so that it only remains to see that this is considered in the new fiscal year, and not allowed to be forgotten.

Attention was called to the play to be given by the Teachers' Association at Players' Hall, on December 5 and 6, and the need for civic interest and support to make it a success. Here is a concrete way in which the people of Newton can show appreciation of their educational service. The play will be Booth Tarkington's "The Intimid Strangers."

The Public Health Chairman asked for "outdoormindedness," and urged that we get out and walk daily—"yes, even on such a day as this, the first of real Winter"—to the entertainment of her hearers. She also brought the good tidings that the Milk Ordinance, for which the Club has worked, had passed, to be effective about April 1.
We trust that this date will not interfere with the success of our work. This means that all cows will be tuberculin-tested, but does not, unfortunately, provide for laboratory tests for bacteria. However, that may come eventually.

Mrs. Russell, Education Chairman, reported on Book Week, and the Civics Chairman announced her satisfaction in the registration of the women voters in Newton, over ninety per cent now being registered. Mrs.
Starkweather also gave her report on the Biennial at Los Angeles.

The Legislative Chairman reported the advice of the State Chairman as to informing ourselves on current problems, and cautioned against endorsement of measures by clubs; urging, rather, that women as individual citizens work for or against measures, instead of endangering club harmony by blanket-endorsements that are too often dangerous, because

SCHOOL HEALTH SERVICE

Interesting Study and Important Recommendations In Report to Newton Central Council

A very valuable piece of work which was conducted quietly during the spring months of last year was a survey of the School Health Service of Newton, made by two students of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at the request of the Newton Central Council.

In his Foreword to the report of the study, Dr. Murray P. Horwood, Assistant Professor in the Department of Biology and Public Health at the Institute comments on the value of the periodic health survey.

"With the increasing development, extent, and complexity of public health work has come the need of stopping at periodic intervals, in order to take stock and find out whether we are proceeding wisely or doing all that we should. The value of the periodic survey depends however, on the intelligence, training, tact, and thoroughness with which the work is conducted. A survey properly conceived, and satisfactorily carried out may be a great potential influence for promoting the welfare of the people in any community.

"Of particular importance in the public health program of any community is the health supervision of the children in the schools. The increased opportunities for contact infection which the assembling of children in large numbers necessarily brings in its wake, and the great losses which communities still experience from the so-called diseases of childhood, make the duty of the community seem extremely obvious. Health supervision must be adequate, and must be conducted in such a manner as effectively to prevent disease and promote the health of the children. The realization that the physical body of the child goes to school as well as the mind, has brought about a marked transformation in our ideas concerning education since the beginning of the Twentieth Century. I am convinced that the future will see even greater progress in the protection of child life against disease and hazards of all sorts. We are also beginning to realize, more than ever before, that the time for the development of good health habits, as well as good habits in other directions, is during the period of childhood. The basis of the civilization of the next generation is being laid in the child life of today. It is our duty, therefore, to build that foundation as firmly and as effectually as our existing knowledge permits.

"The Newton Central Council through the Community Survey which it has undertaken, is attempting to promote intelligent planning for the City of Newton in this direction. We have been particularly fortunate to have the survey of School Hygiene and Sanitation conducted by two fine women of outstanding capability. Both of these are students in the Department of Biology and Public Health of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and were sent to that institution on scholarships provided by the American Child Health Association, after a nation-wide contest. One of these, Miss Florence H. M. Emory, is Supervisor of School Nursing for the Toronto Department of Public Health, while the other, Miss Helen D. Freeborn, has been a member of the Faculty of the Washington Junior High School at Rochester, New York, since 1915."

A summary of the report follows: The whole-hearted co-operation of the Board of Health and the School Department made the Study not an irksome duty to be done, but a worth while and pleasant task to be accomplished. There prevailed throughout a spirit of helpfulness and a desire to have conditions seen as they really existed in order that constructive suggestions for the improvement of the Service might be made.

According to the United States Census of 1920 the City of Newton has a population of 46,054. The city covers an area of 18 square miles and is essentially a city of homes. The Public Schools, including the Classical, Technical and Vocational High and the Junior High School, number twenty-seven. The total enrollment in these schools is 9,921. Of this number 2,153 attend the High Schools, 532 the Junior High School, and 7,256 the elementary schools. The Medical, Dental and Nursing Services of the Newton Public Schools are the responsibility of the Board of Health, the Chairman of which is Dr. Francis G. Curtis, who is essentially the Medical Director of Health. Directly responsible to him are seven part-time physicians, one full-time dentist, and five full-time school nurses. Miss Mabel C. Bragg, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, Habits are given attention. The necessity for sleep, fresh air, proper diet, regular toilet, exercise, posture, and play are also emphasized. Health training is correlated with other subjects of the curriculum, rather than as a separate subject. Naturally, the most extensive work is being done with the younger children.

The methods which make such training effective are varied, and evidence originality to a marked degree. Although the ultimate aim of each teacher is that her pupils should experience positive health, there has not been a desire to standardize methods, but on the contrary to allow each teacher to develop a program which is successful in producing results with her particular pupils.

The project on which health training is based is the monthly weighing by the teacher of each pupil in the class. Measuring is done twice a year. The fundamental interest of the project is to determine whether the children are growing. Each month a report card is sent home to the parent to be signed. Height is provided to indicate age, height, standard weight, actual weight, month's gain, and satisfactory variations from normal. Pupils up to or 20% above standard weight for their height are in the "white" class. Those between 10% below and standard weight, are in the "blue" class. Those more than 10% below standard weight are in the "red" class. Graphs are made for each classroom and for the entire school, indicating the percentage of pupils in the three classes. These are hung in the entrance hall of each school building. When this project was started in September 1921, 42.9% of the pupils were in the red class. In September 1922 the percentage had been reduced to 12%. For the month of March, 1924, 59% of the pupils were found to be in the white class, 35% in the blue and only 6% in the red class. This is indeed a remarkable showing.

Mental tests are given to groups of children by the principal and those who deviate from the normal are referred to the school psychologist for an individual examination.

The school nurse makes a general survey of all school children after long holidays, and if she has time, makes a

An effective way of determining whether pupils are observing the rules of health, is the morning inspection. For the most part, it is left for the individual child to decide whether health objectives are reached.

The distribution of milk has been organized by the principals and teachers in every school. Pupils who desire milk pay 25¢ a week, which pays for half a pint daily including crackers and straws. The milk is served each morning about ten o'clock and does not diminish the time allowed for recess. A very small percentage of pupils who want the milk and cannot pay for it, are cared for by the surplus resulting from the payment of the other children; this is supplemented by money from the Junior Red Cross and also by the fund made available by the Health Committee of the Newton Welfare Bureau.

Lunchrooms are provided in the Classical, Technical and Vocational High School, and the Junior High School, where pupils are served carefully chosen foods at cost price. At the Junior High School, a hot dish, a green vegetable and a fruit form a part of the daily menu. No candy is sold. This lunch room is supervised by the Home Economics Department. Those in the High Schools are under the care of a dietitian. In the Junior High School there are two health clubs—one for boys, and the other for girls. Membership in these clubs is restricted to underweight children. These children are allowed to leave their respective classes at 11:50 A. M. in order that they may be served at the lunch room without being required to stand in line. This diminishes the opportunity for unnecessary fatigue which they might experience otherwise. The trays of these children are carefully supervised to see that the food is both adequate and well balanced.

Pupils attending the grammar schools who are unable to go home for lunch are few in number. Provision is made in a few schools for those who must lunch at school.

The interest of the children in healthy living is developed and maintained by various forms of motivation. Posters, scrap-books, health-books, graphs, rhymes, health plays, health songs, stories, essays, slides, films and miniature radio stations for broadcasting health, have been utilized to create self-activity on the part of the child. In fact, in the Newton Schools, the very blackboards and walls, as well as the enthusiastic children, spell health. An interesting feature of the work amongst girls in the Vocational and Technical High Schools, is the organization of Health Clubs. Their activities include monthly weighing and measuring of each member, and the supervision of younger girls in health matters.

Many procedures have been adopted to find out how many pupils are actually playing the health game. In addition to morning inspections, in many classes a record is kept of the kind of vegetables and fruits eaten, the amount of milk consumed, the hour of going to bed, and the regularity with which teeth are brushed.

Physiology and Hygiene are taught as a part of the regular curriculum, with emphasis on their practical application to healthy living. In the Home Economics Course in high and junior high schools, health is the aim of all instruction in diet and clothing.

An instructor is employed by the School Department to teach Home and Personal Hygiene to pupils from the High and Junior high schools and some of the grammar schools. The instructor is a registered nurse with post-graduate training, and with teaching experience as a background. The text book used is the one published by the American Red Cross. It is unfortunate that so far it has been impossible to provide separate classroom facilities for the teaching of a subject so worth while to the adolescent girl.

The possibility of correlating Health and Science, has been effectively demonstrated in the Technical High School, the Junior High School, and some of the grammar schools. It is impossible for the mouth to come in contact with the orifice of the bubbler.

6. That warm, running water should be available in the basement of every school. Paper towels and soap should be available so that children can wash their hands before lunch when in the building, and after using the toilet.

7. That police protection should be provided for every school where there is danger from passing vehicles.

8. That the entire lighting area should be at the level of the pupil. In older schools, additional light comes from the back. Blackboards should not be placed between windows.

9. That, from the standpoint of fire protection, the narrow wooden stairs in some of the older buildings should be replaced with wider ones made of metal or concrete.

10. That the good example set by the Angie school be followed by having linoleum placed on the door of every kindergarten.

11. That in the construction of new schools, particular emphasis should be placed on the desirability of ventilating classrooms through the use of open windows alone. This will not only reduce the cost of operation but will likewise prove more effective. Such classrooms should also be provided with air deflectors located at the window sills.

12. That a greater attention be directed against the over-heating of classrooms, especially during the spring and fall months, and that teachers be instructed to ventilate their rooms to a greater degree than exists at the present time. The temperature of classrooms should preferably be maintained between sixty degrees and sixty-eight degrees F.

13. That when possible classroom facilities be made available for the Instructor of Home and Personal Hygiene.

14. That more careful attention be given to the adjusting of seats and desks in order to make good posture possible.

15. Although the Newton Schools were found to be remarkably free from over-crowding, portables do exist in connection with two schools, and these should be eliminated as soon as possible.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

THE NEWTON ARCHERS

Archery will soon be over for the winter, yet in spite of cold and wind, and of counter-attractions of football games, seven enthusiastic Newton Archers were shooting on the range at the Newton Centre playground Saturday November 15th. The Saturday before, a new archer was receiving instructions.

On or before Thanksgiving Day, archers all over the United States are shooting what is called the Team Round. This consists of 96 arrows at 60 yards for men, and 96 arrows at 50 yards for ladies. This shoot is an annual event and each archer is to be published in an Archery Bulletin. The Newton Archers usually rank pretty high in the list of scores in this Bulletin.

POLICE BALL

The annual ball of the Newton Police Benefit Association was held Wednesday evening at the State Armory, West Newton, in aid of the sick and death benefit fund of the organization. Raymond Taffe, president of the organization, headed the committee in charge and was assisted by John Monahan, Thomas F. Leehan, Martin F. Stanton, George Kilmann, and William Condrin.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

brought about before full understanding can be obtained.

The matter of the Visiting Teacher, which has been under advisement for some weeks, was postponed for action or decision until January.

The most important business voted was the change in the By-Laws. This affected section 2 of article 6, which relates to the duties of Nominating Committees, and their methods of securing names for vacant offices, and for providing the ballot.

The first public meeting of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs was held last Friday afternoon in the Congregational Church, Newton Highlands, with the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands as the hostess club. Mrs. Charles H. Keeler bade the Federation welcome, and Mrs. Ernest Cobb responded, then called upon Mrs. William H. White, our Director from the twelfth district, for a message from the State Federation. Mrs. Cobb appealed to her with the question, "Are you not a wonderful Director, Mrs. White?" in proof whereof Mrs. White told us of the working of several of the State Departments, but not of the entire eighteen.

The business meeting was omitted. Community singing of "America the Beautiful" was led by Mrs. Forté, member of the Newton Highlands Club.

A pleasing feature of the program was the singing of Miss Madeline Cobb, daughter of the new Federation President, who rendered several songs with charm and with excellent tone. She was accompanied by Mrs. Raymond Collins.

Mrs. Cobb, in introducing the speaker of the afternoon, Mr. Ernest W. Butterfield, Commissioner of Education for New Hampshire, said there were three states of which she was very fond: the State of New Hampshire where she often visited; the State of Massachusetts which was her home; and the state of enjoyment, into which Mr. Butterfield would now lead us.

Mrs. M. Gertrude Cuter was responsible for the treat afforded the members of the Waban Woman's Club on Monday, when, attired in a quaint, brocade costume of long ago, she talked on "Aunt Clarissa and Her Heirlooms of Two Hundred Years." She not only described those fascinating days, she brought some of those interesting heirlooms—old caps done by hand on plain net, handwoven linens, an Empire style, India muslin frock, all hand embroidery, rare old scarves and brocades that were charming.

In his talk on "Home and School Discipline," Mr. Butterfield presented a practical viewpoint, and one at the same time far removed from the usual idea of discipline being enforced through punishment. Illustrations taken from his own wide experience in winning the confidence of children were particularly convincing.

A social hour was enjoyed in the church parlors, where tea was served under the direction of the Social Committee, Mrs. Rugg, Chairman.

The midweek services of Christian Science churches are fully attended, the main auditorium is used for them, and the services of the church and Sunday School being held throughout the year, ample provision has been made for the best in ventilation, heating and lighting.

The seating capacity of the auditorium is approximately 640 including the rear gallery, but the construction is such that side galleries may be added, should a future need for them arise.

The Sunday School room is on the ground floor with daylight lighting. It has a seating capacity of about 300. All of this floor is taken up for the regular uses of the Sunday School and church, with the usual committee and service rooms for carrying on the activities of the church.

The outside dimensions of the church are 70 x 118 feet with main entrance from Walnut street, and side entrance from Otis street. Four tall Corinthian columns in Colonial white support the pediment of the front porch, from which three doors open to the foyer. The inside of the church and Sunday School are finished in white.

While the church exterior is planned as shown in the illustration, the construction will allow for the addition of a tower if that feature is desired.

The location of the new church in Newtonton makes it central to all the Newtons and Waltham, with attractive residential surroundings. In the important matter of transportation, it is five minutes' walk from the Boston & Albany R. R. station, and is served by the east and west electric lines, and by the Crosstown, Waltham and Watertown lines.

The church was organized early in 1913 and the first service was held early in February of that year in Players' Hall, West Newton, where the services are now held.

The present Readers are Mr. Edwin C. Johnson of Newton Highlands and Mrs. William F. Ferrin of Newtonville. Mr. Gardner I. Jones of West Newton is chairman of the Executive Board of the church.

The architects of the new edifice are Densmore, LeClear and Robbins of Boston, and the builder is The Sawyer Construction Company of Boston. While the exact cost has not been determined, it is understood to be about $200,000.

The Newton Community Club held its regular meeting on Thursday, November 13, at the Hunnewell Club, with the President, Mrs. Keach, in the chair. Reports were made from different departments, including a warning on fire prevention, and a plea for the preservation of the mountain laurel, by refusal to purchase this decoration in Christmas wreaths, from the Conservation Chairman, and notice of a meeting to discuss Newton's Educational Problems to be held the following Monday at Bigelow School Hall, from the Education Chairman.

Louis Schalk of Boston came, as a surprise and real treat, to sing, and was most generous in his songs, to the pleasure of the members. Mrs. Schalk was the accompanist. Miss Amy Slacker, Principle of her own School of Design, talked on "Interior Decoration." Her presentation of the background of furniture and fabrics made the object and reason for present design more appreciated and understandable. Demonstrations with color schemes and materials were fascinating.

The third in the series of Cooking Lessons took place on Monday afternoon, when Miss Wilmer experimented successfully on Sunday Night Supper menus, as those who sampled the results can testify.

The meeting which would fall on Thanksgiving Day will be omitted, so that the next meeting will be the Current Events Lecture by Prof. Whitmore on December 4th.

At the meeting this week of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands, Mrs. Patton, President, the subject was "The Ten Most Famous Living American Women." Such a topic gave a wide field for discussion, the list growing to many more than ten, and the side lights on character were not always those that has been expected to be presented. Mrs. Bonser led the discussion, and the meeting was entertained by Mrs. W. R. K. Mick.

The usual business meeting of the Newton Social Science Club was omitted on Wednesday morning, as the Annual Tea was enjoyed, instead, in the afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. H. Powers, 82 Church street. In the receiving line were the President, Mrs. Franklin E. Smith, and the Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Everett Kent and Mrs. Samuel Braman. Mrs. George L. Parker and Mrs. Harry W. Fitts presided at the tea tables.

The Newton Highlands Woman's Club exhibited the best books for children at its meeting this week, and followed out still further the spirit of National Book Week, by having as the speaker of the afternoon Mr. John Clair Motz, Literary Editor of the Boston Herald, whose topic was "What's What Among the New Books."

The classes in dressmaking and hand-made rugs are reported as turning out wonderful results at their weekly lessons, and horseback-riding which is scheduled for every morning at 9:30, during this month, has been courageously continued, so far.

It is announced that the semi-annual disbursement of the Philanthropic Fund will be made in December and appeals for consideration should be sent in writing to the chairman, Miss Marlon H. Dorr, 249 Lake avenue, before November 24th.

Mrs. Cobb, in introducing the speaker of the afternoon, Mr. Ernest W. Butterfield, Commissioner of Education for New Hampshire, said there were three states of which she was very fond: the State of New Hampshire where she often visited; the State of Massachusetts which was her home; and the state of enjoyment, into which Mr. Butterfield would now lead us.

Mrs. M. Gertrude Cuter was responsible for the treat afforded the members of the Waban Woman's Club on Monday, when, attired in a quaint, brocade costume of long ago, she talked on "Aunt Clarissa and Her Heirlooms of Two Hundred Years."

She not only described those fascinating days, she brought some of those interesting heirlooms—old caps done by hand on plain net, handwoven linens, an Empire style, India muslin frock, all hand embroidery, rare old scarves and brocades that were charming.

The Blue Door Studio on Woodward street is the scene of hooked-rug making, a class started this week by the Art Department. The club's second hike is scheduled for Friday, November 21, and the third for November 28, from the home of Mrs. Linscott, 125 Norden road, at 2 o'clock, on the latter date.

Announcement is made of the Symphony Concert for Children, by the Symphony Ensemble, (Mr. A. V. Anzini, Director), which will be given at the Angier School, on Thursday, December 4th at 3 P. M. Tickets may be obtained from members of the Education or Music Committees.

The club also takes pride in telling of the Choral Society that has been formed, which plans, ambitiously to entertain at some near date.

Dr. Payson Smith, State Commissioner of Education for Massachusetts, will speak on Tuesday evening, November 25th, at 8 o'clock at the Angier School, on "Preparing the Children for Life." Though under the auspices of the Waban Woman's Club, the meeting will be open to the public. The lecture will be followed by a reception to Mr. and Mrs. Tenney.

The program for the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club for Monday evening, November 17, was a talk by Miss Cora Cobb on "The Women of the Renaissance." A pleasurable evening of the Choral Society that has been formed, which plans, ambitiously to entertain at some near date.

On Tuesday evening the Auburndale Review Club held an open meeting at the Missionary Home, which was attended by more than sixty members and guests. Mrs. Dennett, the President, welcomed her guests and turned the program over to Mrs. J. Scott Rider, Chairman of Programs. Mr. J. Wyllie Spaulding rendered three Irish songs in a pleasing manner, and Mrs. Esterbrook, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Hanscombe, Mrs. Van Patten Steiger, Mrs. Burton and Mrs. Grant played their respective parts excellently, proving Mrs. Aborn's skillful coaching.

Tea and an informal reception followed.

Activities at the club since then include a lecture on "Chinese Pottery," by Mr. Kershaw at the Art Museum, arranged by the Art Department, on November 18th, and a silver tea on the 19th, where attractive Christmas gifts and home-cooked food were on sale.

The Newton Community Club held its regular meeting on Thursday, November 13, at the Hunnewell Club, with the President, Mrs. Keach, in the chair. Reports were made from different departments, including a warning on fire prevention, and a plea for the preservation of the mountain laurel, by refusal to purchase this decoration in Christmas wreaths, from the Conservation Chairman, and notice of a meeting to discuss Newton's Educational Problems to be held the following Monday at Bigelow School Hall, from the Education Chairman.

The two one-act plays presented by the Dramatic Committee of the Newtonville Woman's Club called out a large audience on Tuesday afternoon, November 13. The cast of the first play, "Two Crooks and a Lady," directed by Miss Louise Wetherbee, included Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Wakefield, Mrs. LeBaron, Mr. Dent, Mr. Smith, and Mr. Dawson. The cast of the second play, "The Happy Man," directed by Miss Bertha Hackett, was made up of Junior High School pupils—Ruth Filene, Elinor Valente, Marjorie Sisson, Lloyd Osborne, Kenneth Merrill, Maynard Whittaker, John Wakefield, Harold Root, Helen Chaisin and Rico Argento. An orchestra composed mostly of High School pupils furnished the music and earned much applause.

A generous collection of useful clothing to be distributed among several organizations was displayed by Mrs. J. A. Stafford, assisted by Miss Emma Page. Some of the institutions to be benefited are the Gov. John A. Andrew Home, the Pomroy Home, and the Home for Aged People.

Tuesday, also, was Donation Day for the Newton Hospital, and Mrs. C. J. Trowbridge, Chairman of the committee, expresses her gratitude and pleasure for the generous contributions of preservatives, jellies and old linen.

Among the classes of the Newtonville Woman's Club, one in Applied Design meets on Monday mornings, at ten o'clock, at the home of Mrs. John W. Byers, 154 Lowell avenue, beginning November 17. NEWTON'S COMING PUGILIST

Mickie Esposito of Newton is putting himself in the lime-light as a 112-pound amateur boxer.

DEATH OF OLD RESIDENT

Mr. George Robert Aston, a resident of Newton for the past fifty years, died last Monday at his home on Oakland street after a long period of failing health. Mr. Aston was born in Liverpool, England, 77 years ago and was a paper hanger by trade. He was prominent in the Odd Fellows, a Past Grand of Lafayette Lodge of Watertown and had served as a District Deputy Grand Master for this district. He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Beatrice L., the wife of Henry A. Heath, Isabelle V., the wife of Edmund C. Sawin and one son, Mr. G. Albert Aston.

Funeral services were held at his late home on Tuesday afternoon and the burial was in Evergreen Cemetery, Boston.

HELP THE CARRIERS

The Shop Early, Mail Early campaign inaugurated by Postmaster General New last year proved to be an unqualified success.

It was of great benefit to the people and also enabled post office employees to deliver all the Christmas mail before noon on December 25. The Department again this year asks the hearty cooperation of the public in order that the record made last year may be equalled, if not exceeded.

When you shop early and mail early you are helping the clerks in the post office to eat their dinners at home and you are greatly benefiting yourselves.

You have a greater chance to secure a better selection of gifts from the stores, you have more time to wrap them securely and you are sure that they will arrive at their destination in time to be opened Christmas morning.

You are also relieving the burdens on the clerks behind the counters in the stores, and you are giving a practical demonstration of the good will that

Christmas time signifies. Acting Post master General John H. Bartlett requests that you refrain from using small envelopes in sending your Christmas cards as this very greatly retards the sorting and distribution of the mails. Let all of us pull together this year, do our shopping early and do our mailing early, let's make it a genuine old-fashioned Christmas celebration.

Growth

New England's large and varied telephone requirements constitute a challenge to foresight and engineering skill.

In scores of communities large office buildings are under construction and new manufacturing and residential sections are developing.

To illustrate how New England is progressing we show the prospective telephone growth of a few of its larger communities:

	Telephones in service Nov. 1, 1924	Estimated telephones Jan. 1, 1930
Metropolitan Boston	387,470	521,000
Worcester	36,140	47,400
Springfield	36,894	47,600
Portland, Me.	22,441	29,000
Manchester, N. H.	14,428	19,500
Rutland, Vt.	4,080	4,900
Providence, R. I.	56,714	78,600

Each new subscriber added at present-day costs increases the average cost of serving all subscribers in any community, but each new subscriber also adds to the value of the service of his community.

The many millions of new money which will be needed to provide facilities for new subscribers can be obtained if the Company is enabled to earn a fair return on its property devoted to giving telephone service. It cannot be obtained unless the Company can earn a fair return; therefore it is obliged to ask for an increase in rates.

MATT B. JONES, President

Saved by Roosevelt's Idea of Square Deal

When Roosevelt was getting ready for his African trip various sportsmen friends, as a matter of course, volunteered suggestions.

"When you get to Nairobi," said one—a Mr. Blank, a happy-go-lucky, careless, prosperous chap, who had dived into the jungle and out again two years before—"whatever you do, don't hire a guide by the name of W—. He is capable enough, but not trust-worthy."

The day Roosevelt reached Nairobi he inquired about this particular guide. He sent for the repudiated guide and got his side of the story, says the Milwaukee Journal.

Just as Roosevelt had divined, it was a mountain made out of a mole hill. The damning word dropped by Mr. Blank without warrant had left stark misery in its wake for the guide. After that he could get no employment from any hunter who came to Nairobi.

Roosevelt heard all this. By way of rejoinder he smashed his itinerary. He rearranged it over night to include a ten days' expedition never before dreamed of in that section of the country. He hired the Nairobi guide to take entire charge of the trip.

When the expedition got back in scheduled time Nairobi's houses heard from Roosevelt. He said: "That guide is the most intelligent, the most industrious, the most reliable and the most satisfactory guide I have ever had."

The rehabilitation of the wounded guide dated from this utterance and this act of Roosevelt's. Again the man began to be sought after by hunters.

Outlaw Queen Could Be All Feminine at Times

Belle Starr, outlaw queen of the old days in Texas and Oklahoma, wore her hair short and was particularly sweet to women, says the Detroit News. She lived for years on the proceeds of boot and lined up a gang of the meanest-looking, hardest cursing, wildest riding and shooting hard-boiled customers in her particular parts of the cow country.

She used to call at women's houses on her way home from leading her band on a robbery, and she would talk with women, sing religious songs and tell stories to the children.

Several stories are told of the way Belle Starr met her death. The generally accepted one is that she was assassinated by a man named Edgar A. Watson, who had gone to Oklahoma in the '80s and started farming near her place. It is told they became enemies in a dispute over land rental. Anyway, February 3, 1889, so the version has it, a double-barreled shotgun did the work.

Long Pedigrees

Royalty, as in the Hatfield chart, which traces Queen Elizabeth's descent from Adam, is not alone in claiming long pedigrees. On the tomb of a former town clerk of Burton-on-Trent that worthy is described as thirty-seventh in descent from Alfred the Great. Again, a distinguished French family, the Magons (an Admiral Magon was killed at Trafalgar) shows a pedigree deriving from Magos, the brother of Hannibal.

An Italian nobleman, the Marchese Porro, traces his line back to Porus, the Indian monarch who fought against Alexander the Great, while the Samson family who own estates near Lyons claim that their descent is from the strong man of the Bible, and in support of the claim bear on their coat-of-arms the broken column of a temple.—Manchester Guardian.

Real "Robinson Crusoe"

Alexander Selkirk was an adventurer, born in Largo, Scotland, in 1676. He was a skillful seaman and made several voyages to the South sea, in one of which, having quarreled with his commander, he was put ashore on the island of Juan Fernandez with a few supplies. Here he lived alone for four years and four months, when he was rescued by Capt. Woods Rogers. He returned to England in 1711, and is said to have given his papers to Defoe, who, from them, wrote the story of "Robinson Crusoe." Selkirk died on the ship Weymouth in 1723.

Famous the World Over

Epsom, England, is in the county of Surrey, 15 miles southwest of London. Epsom was formerly celebrated for a mineral spring, from the water of which the well-known Epsom salts were manufactured. A number of the sons of medical men are educated at the Royal Medical College, and adjoining the school is a home for aged physicians or their widows. The principal attraction is the grand race meeting held on the downs, which is attended by hundreds of thousands of persons.

Characters of History

Ibn al-Ruzaz was an Arabian physician who lived from 850 to 932. He is noteworthy as being the first man to describe smallpox and measles in an accurate manner. Hugh of Hulda was a Benedictine monk and writer of music. He was born at Tournai, France, about 840. He later started a school of music and other arts at Nevers. He was the inventor of the gamut. The only work positively ascribed to him is the Harmonica. He died in 930.

Amusing Things, Those Very Superior Beings

It is curious how differently people regard human beings, William Lyon Phelps comments in Scribner's Magazine. Some, upon entering a trolley car, hate everyone else in the vehicle; some look upon the crowd at a street corner with disgust; it must be wonderful to have such a sense of superiority, to have such childlike unquestioning faith in one's own splendid intellect.

The most amusing thing is to enter a fashionable hotel, and as you advance to the office desk, followed by your traveling bags, to glance for a moment at those individuals who, having already been there some days, now gaze at you from their settled and comfortable chairs. They look at you as though you were garbage.

In the same way, many people, traveling in foreign lands, hate all their fellow countrymen whom they meet. This scorn used to distress me, just as I used to be disturbed by the contempt of a waiter in a hotel or a butler in a fashionable mansion; now I am only amused; and instead of being sorry for myself, I am sorry for those who sit in the seat of the scornful.

One may have a certain satisfaction in a feeling of complacency or superiority, but such an emotion is not so desirable as the cheerfulness produced by a general sympathy for mankind.

Cow's Milk Largely Used in Manufactures

Should the humble cow ever aspire to trade-mark her products, the average shopper would be amazed at the labels "Made from milk" which would adorn his purchases—purchases ranging from horn-rim spectacles to chessmen, magazines to radio sets.

Three per cent of casein in cow's milk is the raw material for a kaleidoscopic array of manufactured products. Nor does this take into account that at our present rate of consumption every 12 persons consume the milk product of one cow.

Bread has a reputation of being the "staff of life," but milk more nearly fulfills that definition. Substitutes for our customary breads may be had; but there is no substitute for milk. Even the elimination of the casein from milk, the element which provides most of the by-products, would be inconvenient. Chemically, casein is the principal nitrogenous constituent of milk; popularly it is the "curd," and its first and principal use is for cheese.

Alas, Quite Uncivilized

If there is any doubt that the inhabitants of New Guinea are uncivilized beings, we need cite only their attitude toward paying taxes—which, according to the Argonaut, is as follows:

Travelers in New Guinea occasionally pick up good stories concerning native manners and peculiarities. A tax collector had an amusing experience when he was on his rounds. He had been to one village to collect taxes, and when he left he was met by the people of a neighboring village.

"What wrong have we done that we should be ignored by the government?" they asked. "Come, we have money; we will show it to you. The idea of those Kerepunu people paying taxes and we not! We are just as poor as they are."

The tax collector had to pacify them by taking their money.—Youth's Companion.

Goths a Divided Race

The Goths were a warlike race which at one time inhabited the country in the vicinity of the Baltic, and afterward moved toward the Black sea and the lower Danube where, about 250 B. C., it divided into two branches. Those that remained in the eastern part of the Roman empire were termed western (Visi) Goths, says the Kansas City Times. The Ostrogoths, after ravaging eastern Europe, established under Theodoric a kingdom in Italy which lasted from 493 to 554 A. D., when the country was recovered by Narses and annexed to the eastern empire. The Visigoths, after various successes against the Romans, sacked Rome under Alaric in 410. They afterward settled in Spain and founded a kingdom that lasted until the country was conquered by the Saracens.

Gibbet Superseded Cross

Crucifixion as a method of punishing criminals remained in force throughout the Roman empire until the early part of the Fourth century. The death by the cross was abolished by the Emperor Constantine and was replaced by the gibbet, which continued as a means of execution until comparatively recent times. It figures frequently in the history of England. It was also used as an instrument of punishment in the British colonies and was so employed in the island of Newfoundland, where there are several "Gibbet Hills," marking the site of hangings.

The Word Factory

Slang is the great manufacturer of words, for it is constantly originating new ones which eventually are adopted by the lexicographers and get into the dictionaries. But radio has made a record in its responsibility for 5,000 new words added to our speech in a very short time. Gold has added its contribution of a few hundred, but it has been more deliberate, in keeping with the nation which is sponsor for the game. The automobile must be given credit for its share and aviation has added quite an array.

Able to Endure Long Periods of Fasting

Some curious facts with respect to the capacity for fasting as exhibited by various animals are cited by Siegmund Urabin in the Umeshau (Frankfurt), according to the Detroit News. He begins by observing:

"The power of the camel to do without taking food is regarded in most works on zoology as representing scientific peculiarities of animals. But if there were a general knowledge of the ability of many animals to fast for very long periods of time these instances would not be so overemphasized. It is, indeed, generally known that even mammals are able to fast for months during their winter hibernation, but it seems to be almost unknown that the same power exists among the lower animals. The power of fasting is much more widespread in them than was formerly supposed."

Mr. Urabin then refers to an experience of his youth when he put certain snails which had already withdrawn into their shells and closed the opening thereof, as is their custom, into a box, whereupon he forgot them for a period of more than a year and a half. He supposed they were inevitably dead, but when he put them into a vessel filled with water, much to his surprise, they came out of their shells and crawled gaily about on the table.

Plants Set Traps for Unwary Insects

Certain plants, like certain people, require strong foods. Not satisfied with the nourishment derived from the soil, they require flesh and blood. Such plants exist by the consumption of insects and small animals, and are to be found in bogs and marshes in tropical countries. All carnivorous plants are endowed with a sense of taste, and a tasty morsel of meat is speedily devoured! The side-saddle plant, found in parts of America, sets water traps for its victims. This plant holds up to the sunlight vase-like leaves, around the mouths of which are glands that secrete honey. Tempted by the scent, the insects make their way across the leaves to the mouth of the plant; farther and farther they wander down the tube, looking for the honey. Detentive hairs prevent their exit and tired and weary, they eventually fall into the pool secreted at the bottom of the leaf. The common sundew captures dragonflies and ants. Attracted by the gummy appearance of the rosy leaves, the feet of the visitors become securely fixed to the gum, and the red tentacles close in on the unwary insects.

Superior Existence

We live in the sun and on the surface—a thin, plausible, superficial existence—and talk of music and prophet, of art and creation. But out of our shallow and frivolous way of life, how can greatness ever grow? Come now, let us go and be dumb. Let us sit with our hands on our mouths, a long, austere, Pythagorean lustrum. Let us live in corners and do chores and suffer, and weep, and drudge, with eyes and hearts that love the Lord. Silence, seclusion, austerity, may pierce deep into grandeur and secret of our being, and so diving, bring up out of secular darkness the sublimities of the moral constitution. How mean to go blazoning, a gaudy butterfly, in fashionable or political salons, the fool of society, the fool of notoriety, a topic, for newspapers, a piece of the street, and for the real prerogative of the russet coat, the privacy, and the true and warm heart of the citizen!—Emerson,

The arrangements for the Christmas Pageant to be given by the young people of the M. E. Church are almost completed, the pageant promises to be one of the best thus far presented.

A Union Thanksgiving service was held last Wednesday evening at the Baptist Church. Rev. Mr. Shaw of the Methodist Church preached the sermon.

A new flag pole with handsome silk standard was raised on the Emerson School grounds last Tuesday morning by Mr. F. R. Hodge, principal of the school. The grade children gave a short patriotic entertainment in the hall.

Twenty-six members of the Newton Girls' Community Club gave a very pleasing entertainment at the Stone Institute last Saturday afternoon. Music dancing and readings, followed by delicious refreshments, were greatly enjoyed by the residents.

HORACE MANN IN NEWTON

Education Week has been most interesting to many of us, who have read with keen appreciation the words of those who are foremost in our educational work in Massachusetts. We have all felt a thrill of pride in realizing that the man, whose name was most lauded by all educators, lived in Newton when he was doing his great work for America. Horace Mann had been a member of the House of Representatives and had served in the State Senate earlier, and through his personal exertions, Massachusetts established a Board of Education, and Mr. Mann was at once placed at its head, as Secretary. During his residence in West Newton, in addition to other duties, he wrote the reports of the board for the people of the State. These reports discussed in a forcible manner, many new questions on education, and they had a great influence in elevating the standard of public sentiment and of school instruction, not only in Massachusetts, but throughout the whole country and world, as they were published in many languages. His earnestness in advocating new methods and new plans started the great movement in public school education, which is more strikingly American, than any system which we call American in distinction from others called European. Besides the work as Secretary of the Educational Board, he had general care and superintendence of the erection of three Normal School buildings, one of which had been started in West Newton. Mr. Mann himself said: "I have labored in this educational cause an average of not less than fifteen hours each day, from the beginning to the end (eleven years), never took a single day for recreation." Mr. Mann erected his home in West Newton at the corner of Highland and Chestnut streets, and there with his wife, children, and a group of friends, lived delightfully, until called to Washington, for at the death of John Quincy Adams, Mr. Mann's services were needed in the National Congress. While in West Newton, Mrs. Mann's sister, Elizabeth Peabody, the pioneer and interpreter of Froebel to the Americans, lived with the Manns. Mrs. Mann, herself, was a most cultured and refined woman, a daughter of Dr. Peabody of Salem, and an authoress of some distinction, while always sharing and assisting in her husband's educational duties. Miss Katherine Beecher, the sister of Harriet Beecher Stowe and Henry Ward Beecher, lived also at the Manns. Miss Rebecca Pennell, too, a remarkable teacher of mathematics, shared their home, and my father, Nathaniel T. Allen, enjoyed the privileges of the home, when he first came to West Newton, as a teacher in the Model Department of the Normal School. It was Horace Mann who urged my father to open a private school, which he was principal of for nearly fifty years.

She had strong convictions. Her aim was constantly to the right. She might not always agree in opinions with the friends that knew her well. But what is it that makes opinions different? It is strength of conviction; it is a sense of right and of truth that takes form in individual life. What makes life is the purpose running through, the purpose to be right, the purpose to be true. This is that which unites life, calls individuals together and holds them in the constancy of fellowship and friendship and kinship. Then the differences fall away and the unities of life assert themselves and they grow stronger with the years and they deepen with life's deepening experiences, and when the sad time comes and the parting, then it is realized what life has been.

Now we understand what the Apostle said when he said that the things unseen are the things that are eternal. Lay the frail vesture by and the purposeful life is now understood to be the endless life, for the purposes that actuated our friend have no end. Had she lived many more years her purposes would have outrun it and been far beyond.

What does it mean? It means that God is speaking to us through life.

Those purposes are unfulfilled in the seeing world but move to their fulfillment in the glory that today we cannot see. And so, if she were to speak to us it would be words of cheer.—Look up, not down; look on, not back; beautiful and lovely are the memories, but not back; forward, forward.

Speaking of things that are to be, 'Tis not what a man does that exalts him, said the poet, "but what man would do!" Here is the purpose of God speaking in the purpose of a noble life. And then, my friends, as we gather here to pay our tribute let us do as our friend would have us do—go with uplifted eyes and with a cheerful spirit and with a courage and constancy that though life has apparently ended it has only here begun, and in the days that are to come, whether we linger here a short or a longer time, it will only be an incident in the forward way. If she were to speak to us she would say, "Come on, with cheer and with a great trust. There is more work to do. We have the finer and the better world yet."

ST. JAMES THEATRE—"The Gold Diggers" from the wit-tipped pen of Avery Hopwood comes to the St. James next week—a farce as bright as Broadway, a comedy of modern manners. Mr. Hopwood tells the story of chorus-girls after the footlights have gone out. He seems actuated by a great motive—to present the chorus girl in her true lights, as earnest, hard-working, intelligent, light-hearted and kind-hearted. He does well by them—this gallant champion of the fair, and under his hand they are an enchanting crew, even in the early morning. The firmest Puritan jaw would relax after ten minutes of the play.

indeed is our life. It was, and it is, and it will be. This, then, is not the end, but, as the poet says, though life be fled, it means not that life has ended, it has just laid aside the material vesture which was worn for a while.

I should attempt to enumerate the many serviceable activities that have engaged this one, I should certainly speak to you for some time, for they are so many and they are known to all of you. First, those memories of service in connection with the home. Those of us of the more intimate acquaintance know with what self-giving devotion she made life for others in the home, and so made a place that is now widely vacant and leaves a pain of loss which we are helpless to relieve.

But that, my friends, is a silent tribute to the devotion of this one given to make a home for others, and with a devotion that lives in the hearts and the lives of others.

Then we might follow the widening circle of relationships and of duties performed in the community in connection with the club work, the press work, the college work, and the wider service during the great conflict that engaged us all some years ago, where she gave fidelity to the public service. Not only has it expressed itself through the church and the various clubs and organizations in which she was active, but there was the constant personal devotion to friendships.

Now I shall not attempt to enumerate. You know as I know, and as this life come to us now in beautiful memory I dare say we all agree in recalling one thing that characterized the life above all else and wends its way through all the various duties and relationships—and that was a fidelity to the right,—what is true and what ought to be, a constant gauge and purposer; always interested in the cultural life, to bring truth and light into life and for a purpose, and always was she true to that purpose, that it should contribute something to the making of life. I dare say we all are of one mind in that regard.

And now as we gather here with her life in memory, this fidelity begins to take on a new light of meaning. Here indeed was the meaning of the life.

She had strong convictions. Her aim was constantly to the right. She might not always agree in opinions with the friends that knew her well.

But what is it that makes opinions different? It is strength of conviction; it is a sense of right and of truth that takes form in individual life. One of the questions to be voted upon at the coming city election is the repeal of the present preferential form of voting at municipal elections in this city.

The editor has been called the "father" of preferential voting in Newton, and in point of fact, had a hand in its adoption some years ago.

He is therefore, fairly well qualified to express an opinion on its merits as it has worked out during recent years.

Preferential voting is just what its name indicates—the voters have the opportunity to "prefer" some candidates over others by exercising a first choice, a second choice and sometimes a third choice.

If no candidate has a majority of first choice votes, then the first and second choice votes for each candidate are added together and the leading candidate in those totals is elected.

In theory, the plan is admirable, but it simply will not work in practice as it has been repeatedly found that large numbers of voters will NOT exercise their rights to a second and third choice, and limit their franchise to a first choice only. This gives the few persons who do vote for second or third choice candidates an undue influence and in several instances has elected persons who did not receive the highest number of first choice votes, with subsequent ill feeling and disgust on the part of candidates and their friends.

In addition, the preferential form of voting makes it necessary for each candidate to wage his or her own campaign with little or no responsibility to the electorate.

We believe that the preferential plan should be repealed and that the city should return to the former method of nominating candidates by municipal primaries and we shall oppose the suggestion that in place of the preferential form we shall embark on another experiment such as proportional representation, non-partisan primaries and the like. We know how the old method worked; we know that the present experiment has not been a success and common sense indicates that we get onto solid ground once more before we experiment again.

The death of Miss Grace M. Burt, the community in general and the readers of the Graphic in particular, suffers a serious loss. Miss Burt was always active in all forms of community service, always loyal to high ideals and had won a high place in the respect and regard of a large circle of friends. As an associate editor of the Graphic, she manifested unusual newspaper ability and brought to her work a devotion and conscientiousness which could not be excelled. Her death is a personal loss, not only in this community, but to many clubs, women throughout the state.

The evident lack of interest in candidates for the city government is a conclusive reason why there should be some recognized political organization like the Republican city committee authorized to take some responsibility in the selection of candidates. The present method makes it easy for self seeking persons to obtain office.

The movement to place a memorial pulpit in the West Newton Unitarian church for the late Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, its minister, will meet the hearty approval of all who knew and loved him. A wonderful preacher, a loyal friend and a sincere Christian, the pulpit will be the outward symbol of the feeling of many a heart.

The Older Boys' Conference to be held in Newton beginning next Friday gives a splendid opportunity to show our hospitality. About 600 boys are expected and, in the absence of hotel accommodations, it is imperative that private homes shall be opened for them.

The announced purpose of the leaders in the order of Elks to take steps towards eliminating automobile accidents is most commendable and should be followed by all the other fraternal organizations.

NEWTON ROTARY CLUB

At the usual luncheon on Monday the Club passed resolutions on the death of its vice president Mr. Thomas J. Sullivan. The Boys Work Committee made an interesting report and Mr. Hess of the Y. M. C. A. told of the coming Older Boys Conference to be held in Newton next week.

WEST NEWTON NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSE

The Mothers' Club will hold a regular meeting Wednesday evening, December 3, at which final plans for the Christmas party will be made.

Smith of Paris will exhibit her international "Peasant Art" collection.

GIRLS' BOOKS

Nov. 28, 1924.

There are plenty of good books for younger people. There are wonderful books that older boys can enjoy. But books that are really interesting and satisfying to the girl in her teens are not to be found on every book shelf. She does not want children's books. She may enjoy an occasional book that is distinctively a boy's book; but she craves something else, nor do all books that are read by adults interest her. The following are suggested as a few that can be recommended as both interesting and satisfying:

Books for girls, 13-15 years
Mehitable (school life in France) by Adams.

Midsummer (summer in Sweden) by Adams

Red caps and lilies (French Revolution) by Adams

Wisp (a girl of Dublin) by Adams

Two college girls (American college story) by Brown

Hallowell partnership (N. E. girl who goes west with her brother) by Brown

Little Princess Nina (Russian) by Charskaya

Pool of stars (well written mystery) by Meigs

Master Simon's garden (colonial Massachusetts) by Meigs

Secret of Hallowdene Farm (English life) by Pocock

Silver shoal light (adventure story of merit) by Price

Fortune of the Indies (adventure story of merit) by Price

Four cousins Norway (by Zwiglmeyer Non-fiction)

Letters to his children, by Roosevelt —JER677-Rb

A hundred things a girl can make, by Snow—JVS-867

Rainbow gold, by Teasdale—JYP-9722r

Books for older girls, 16-18 years

Pride and prejudice, by Austen

Little minister, by Barrie

Jane Eyre, by Bronte

David Copperfield, by Dickens

Black tulip, by Dumas

Mill on the floss, by Eliot

Elephant's Last Walk

The autograph of an elephant on the way to his own funeral, an event which occurred some million years or so ago, has been found in Nevada. The footprints of the great beast are clearly seen as he made them when he plodded wearily along through the soft sand, subsequently hardening into rock. That it was his last walk was discovered when the scientists excavated the rock and traced the footprints to where the fossil bones of this denizen of the forests of ancient times laid.

SCHOOL NOTES

The F. A. Day Junior High School

The Girls' Athletic Association gave the first dance of the season in the school auditorium on November 21st. There were many there and an orchestra consisting of a pianist, a violinist, a drummer and a saxophone player furnished good music for them. They had an elimination dance during the afternoon. The winners were Helen Madden and Gladys Jerauld.

During the Assembly, November 26, an admirable program was given by the following: Melvin Rodney, William Richardson, Ruth Black, Beatrice Armstrong, Audrey Bartington, Esther Coleman, Mary Coleman, Alice Collier, Winifred Evans, Patty Wright and Audrey Bartington. There were also songs by the Glee Club, and the Proclamation by Carl Pescosolido.

The F. A. Day boys defeated Waltham Junior High boys at Clafin Field, November 20, 22-0, following the example set by their seniors. On the opening line-up Gadsden was at quarterback and J. Brown started in place of S. Brown. The stars proved to be Gadsden, Casteau and J. Brown. Coach Simmons said: "The gang played well. Their tackling was good, I think, than the Senior High tackling. They were up against stiffer opposition than they had to face before. They deserved a successful close to a successful season. The school may well be proud of such a team."

The school has enjoyed unusual cooperation from the parents during the past week. Many readjustments have been made as a result of the informal conferences with the principal, teachers and parents.

Stearns School

Education Week was observed in the school last week Friday being special visiting day. Many parents were present at the weekly entertainment given by the sixth grade. At this meeting Miss Walker sang and Miss Broughton played the violin. These numbers added a great deal to the program presented by the children.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Goddard and Miss Trask invited the parents of their children to a tea in Miss Trask's room. The parents observed the work of their children and were served tea and cakes by some of the little girls.

On Wednesday morning of this week a Thanksgiving program was given in the hall. A fine play was presented by the fourth grades.

Last week all the children were examined by the doctors.

Mason School

The sixth grades enjoyed lantern slides showing a trip through Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Some of the pupils are now writing a description of their trip in an illustrated booklet.

Rooms eleven and twenty-one are reading "Hiawatha" in their literature work and last week saw the school set of lantern slides which they greatly enjoyed.

Education Week in the Mason showed the genuine interest which the parents of Newton Centre have in the progress of their boys and girls. The eighteen rooms had over two hundred visitors.

Franklin School

Angelina Yerardi, a member of the Franklin Kindergarten, invited the children to visit her turkey yard. It was a new experience for many of the children had never seen live turkeys. The proud gobblers strutted about displaying their beautiful fans, much to the delight of the children.

The children gave a Thanksgiving party to Miss Doran. Games were played, and at lunch time the fruits of the harvest season were enjoyed.

The third grade in Miss Bradley's room presented a play entitled "The First Thanksgiving Day." The cast was as follows: Gov. Bradford, Norman Henley; Capt. Miles Standish, Joseph Powers; John Alden, Herbert Mingace; Priscilla Mullins, Laura Gentile; Massasoit, Besilis Gorgone; Squanto, John Kerr; Samoset, Albert Castoldi.

Lasell

A Thanksgiving offering of candy, preserves and other articles was made by the Lasell Student Body under the direction of the Lasell Missionary Society, a box was sent to the Morgan Memorial, Salvation Army and Union Rescue Mission.

School closes for the Thanksgiving recess at noon on Wednesday, November 26. Classes will be resumed on Monday afternoon, December 1.

HIGH SCHOOL WOMAN'S CLUB

The Newton High School Woman's Club presents "The Intimate Strangers" by Booth Tarkington for the Benefit Fund on Saturday evening, Dec. 6th in Players Hall, West Newton at 8 o'clock.

WEST NEWTON MUSIC SCHOOL

Our pupils are now working on the Christmas Mystery Play of the Nativity by Miss Fyffe and Miss Ekman, which they are to give at the Congregational Church in Newtonville, on Sunday, December 14th.

There will be a Thanksgiving recess beginning Wednesday, Nov. 26th, and lasting for the rest of the week.

Newton Lower Falls

Gas Company Salesroom at Newton open Friday evenings until 9.

The sermon next Sunday at St. Mary's Church will be given by Rev. Henry E. Bray, and there will be a special service for the men.

The Ladies of Perrin Memorial Church will hold their Annual Fair and Sale on Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 3 and 4, in Early Hall. There will be a supper Wednesday at 6.30 P. M., and on Thursday evening an entertainment at 7.45.

Last Tuesday afternoon, the Junior Girl Reserves, assisted by members of the Triangle Club, presented a very delightful autumn pageant. The story of the play was the coming of Autumn, the Scarlet Knight, to woo summer and carry her away with him. The cast of the play was as follows:

Summer, Beulah Angell; The Spirit of Spring, Catherine Ambrose; Summer's Attendants, Helen Harrington, Olive Clark, Bernice Leacy and Isabelle Orr; The Spirit of Autumn, Margaret Pitts; Autumn's Herald, Catherine Ambrose; Autumn's Pages, Pauline Beaufort and Olga Currier; The Scarlet Knight, Dorothy Taylor; Summer Dancers, Beulah Hopwood, Mary Ellen McFadden, Rachel Bloom, Bernice Bloom, Mary Teed, Katherine McFadden, Lillian McVean, Dorothy Mabey, Florence Gates and Jean McNeven.

Before the pageant there were piano solos by Edith Boothby, a reading by Katherine Ward, and dances and readings by Lois Hammond.

Miss Margaret Sheridan has been elected captain of the Basket Ball team of the Newton Y. W. C. A. and Beatrice Clark, manager.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

EMMA D. COOLIDGE, Editor

State Federation

The Fall Meeting of the State Federation—the first open meeting at which its President, Mrs. Frederick Glazier Smith, has presided—took place last Wednesday, November 19th, at Lowell. The meeting was held in the Memorial Auditorium, a magnificent new building erected by the citizens of Lowell in tribute to all Lowell men who have fought in our country's wars. Mrs. Charles Hobson, President of the Middlesex Women's Club, which was hostess, told of the Memorial and its purposes, in her welcoming address.

In such a setting it was not strange that reverence and inspiration became the keynote of the assemblage, and Mrs. Smith, in responding to the address of welcome, voiced these sentiments.

"The young men in whose honor this beautiful building has been erected fought for a principle and won. They had a vision of the world safe for democracy, which led them through many hardships, even to make the supreme sacrifice. Our Federation was the dream of a group of wise women who could look ahead into the future and see the possibilities of organized womanhood. Let us clothe ourselves with the garments of education and hope."

Twenty-six years ago the Middlesex Club entertained for the first time this Federation, and today one of the two women who presided at that meeting, Miss O. M. E. Rowe, was on the platform, and brought a greeting to today's clubwomen across that span of history.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, General Federation Director, told of plans to raise a maintenance fund of $50,000 for headquarters in Washington, and the request that will be made for $1 contributions from the 3,000,000 club members of the country.

Mrs. Arthur D. Potter told of the value of the New England Conference by which we become aware of one another's interests, and are inspired hereby. The next one will be held in Maine, in September, probably at Poland Springs.

In lighter vein was community singing, led by Mrs. Barstow. "Swanee River" and "Long, Long Trail" brought out the voices, and those who attended the Swampscott meeting last May do not need to be told of Mrs. Barstow's "pep," even to the sacrifice of the proper hang of her garments.

Description of the new Headquarters on Boylston street, with their treasures of new furniture, art loans, and business equipment, was splendidly told by Mrs. Leach, First Vice-President.

A thrilling surprise was sprung when Prof. Boris Moshkoffin, the University of Prague was presented, and he extended greetings from the women of Czechoslovakia, who, he said, enjoyed equal rights and privileges with the men. Somewhat we of America forget that we are not the only women of the world to hold this proud recognition, and we sometimes even get a shock to discover that in some of those "dreadful" foreign countries the women are even more emancipated and more recognized in high office than are we of this supposedly most democratic country of the world.

Luncheon was served in the High School Annex, which was attractively decorated. Seven long tables, the entire length of the drill shed, accommodated the more than one thousand delegates.

The afternoon session opened with a musical program: William C. Heller, organist, and Alessandro Niccoli, violinist. The address of the afternoon was given by Glenn Frank, Editor of Century Magazine. His subject was "The Outlook for Western Civilization."

In opening his talk he said that the women may have read what he had to say in "Century," if so, he could quote what he overheard in Canada a canny Scotchman say to the chairman of a meeting at which he had spoken. "How did you like the lecture, Donald?"

"It was verrá, verrá good," came the answer, "but it was not original."

"Not original? How's that?"

"Why now, I read it four months ago in the Century!"

Mr. Frank brought out the wisdom of looking into the future of our civilization, just as would any business man look ahead for his prospects, but he asked that we discount the pessimism that is finding utterance in regard to it. Some of the most alert and incisive intelligences of our time believe that our western civilization is doomed; that in the next twenty-five years we shall see a new dark age. And having so declared themselves, all the biologists, scientists, psychologists, economists, and every manner of specialist, is thrown into gloom, and adds his doleful voice of woe to the prophecy. After which there will be a period of reaction, and we will return to old safe, familiar ground. Signs of it are in the three "catch-words" applied to political figures of the day: "Harding's normalcy," "Bonar Law's tranquility," and "Coolidge's stability."

Humorously he suggested that we might even try H. G. Wells' comedy, and apply humor or comic relief even to our architecture, as that novelist declared that we are about entering into a new era of humor or run. He added that had Mr. Wells seen some of the Missouri architecture he might have thought that he had already entered that age of comic relief therein.

The outstanding business announcement of the day was the organization of a new department, to be in conformity with the work of the General Federation—a Division of Homemaking, of which Mrs. Charles R. Scott of Westboro has been appointed Chairman. Specialists in this work to pass on plans and programs to clubs are: Mrs. S. A. Weston of Wellesley, Home Budget; Mrs. S. A. Chevalier of Boston, Insurance; Mrs. Helen Flint Taylor of Newton Centre, Textiles; and Mrs. Gladys B. Jones of Auburndale, Nutrition. This sounds very intriguing, and already plans are under way for a two-day State conference, Jan. 21 and 22, at Boston University. Surely no work can be of more value than one that has for its ideal the bettering of the American Home.

A Joint Conference on the proposed change of the compulsory school age in Massachusetts, under the direction of the Education, Legislative, and Social and Industrial Conditions Committee of the State Federation, was held last Friday morning at Pilgrim Hall, Boston. In view of the recent Child Labor Amendment and the controversy it engendered, it is well to report this conference somewhat fully to club members, that they may be informed on the opinions of educators on this problem of our State. It is well, too, to call attention to the fact that this conference was a joint one, a most wise getting-together of club committees.

Mrs. Charles B. Hall, a State Fed. Director, struck the keynote in this wisdom when she opened the meeting by saying that our club committees might well be likened to musical instruments, each of which was capable of beautiful music, but that played in conjunction, each carrying the theme, instead of overlapping in effort, a most effective piece of music was composed, and its power for harmony in the progress of our work could not be calculated.

Mrs. Kimball, Education Chairman, wished it made clear that the Federation is neither for nor against any proposed change in the school age of our law that may come up in the next session, but is bringing this before us for study.

Research work is being done by the Mass. School Superintendents Ass'n, each member of which is a chairman to investigate some phase of the problem. Education Commissioner, Payson Smith, sits in at these committee meetings, and is giving wholehearted support to the effort.

Mr. Charles S. Clark, Chairman of this association, pointed out the need of becoming generally informed on this subject, amusing his audience by speaking of the confusion of utterances that confront the citizen, as was proven by the vote on the Child Labor Amendment, when loudness of assertion won; in other words, the vote became a victory of stentorian voices, he said.

The aim of all should be not the cost of the change, not the arguments as to what is best for parents, schools, or industry, but what is best for the child, and best for the State, in making children the highest type of citizens.

Miss Ethel Johnson's record of the Value of Child Labor in Industry stated that about forty-five thousand children are in industry—children under sixteen—and yet these represent only two percent of those who are employed, so that child labor is not turning the wheels of industry. About one-third of these children are in textile mills; the others are in various factories and stores.

Of those who left school for work, investigation has shown that 68 percent have forfeited chance for real success by lack of education, have come under evil influences during employment, and as a consequence have wasted their years. Many, because not adapted by capacities, drift in unemployment, so neither earning nor learning. Comparing the earning power of those who continued through High School, and those who left before sixteen years old, the person who left school gets a maximum salary at thirty years of less than $1,200, which falls off at fifty years, because the work is physical, and the entire money earned during the years 14 to 18 to compensate is only $2,000. Whereas the person who has graduated from school at eighteen, reaches a salary of approximately $4,200 by forty years of age, and remains at this figure, because the work is such as requires educational ability.

Many stores and the telephone companies do not want children under sixteen, having learned that they are not wise investment.

Mr. S. Howard Chase showed charts comparing school and age requirements of the various States. Two States require children to start to school at six years, seven at seven years, eighteen at eight years (this was a surprise), and one not until nine years. Thirty have an upper age limit of sixteen years, and the rest are not so good. But the amazing thing was that there are twelve States—Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas, Virginia, Washington and Wyoming—that have no educational requirements, provided the age law is obeyed. In other words, it does not matter whether the student knows anything after his required school attendance or not.

Mr. John F. Scully told of the Type of School that would be Required by the Proposed Change, pointing out that children may leave school on account of "economic necessity," which can be stretched to cover a multitude of excuses. The real problem is the child that is not "book-minded," but could be taught in vocational and mechanical schools—if only we had appropriated the money for such schools as are needed—and developed into a type of citizen of which our State might be proud, and made a success of life that would lift him from the drudgery he now hopelessly experiences.

Going on with Continuation Schools, Mr. Robert O. Small said we had not begun to touch the potentialities here, or the vast good that more part-time schools, and factory schools, such as big industries are establishing, in our State can do. It made very real the need for us not to be penny-wise and pound foolish, in refusing money for this work, while spending lavishly for other things that are not nearly so vital. Household art for girls, manual trades for boys, open up a new world to those not "book-minded," and thousands of students in these schools have been placed in employment that was remunerative and self-respecting.

In giving Some Idea of the Finances Involved, Mr. Harvey S. Gruber told how many rooms in schools we need now to house adequately the pupils we already have, and how many more would be needed if the age limit should be raised to 15 or 16 years. About eight million dollars is lacking even to do what we should be doing today according to our laws, by way of giving fair education to those who now look to us for it. Should the age be raised to 16 we should need about twenty-two million more, including new building cost. Now it is evident that, should we raise this school age, one of two things will happen—we cut down the opportunities of those already in school by having to share them with new comers, provided we do not open our hearts and purses, or we must pay the twenty-two million cheerfully, in all fairness to the students we require to go to our school until 16 years old.

Are we ready to face this responsibility, to play fair, and murmur not? There is no doubt that we should be, and if we agree on this, suppose we start on a campaign to stop foolish expenditure in many lines, upon which we have been winking for so long.

Recent Events

In announcing their bazaar recently the West Newton Women's Educational Club gave this clever plea: "Money, money, money. Oh, come and spend it freely. Our pet charities see calling. So we need it, really, really!" Now it would be impossible to turn a deaf ear upon such advertising, and that was impossible as attested by the official report that the bazaar proved very successful, a substantial sum having been realized for the club treasury. The hall presented an attractive appearance, with prettily decorated tables, and equally attractive

BOOKSHELF FOR PARENTS

Nov. 21, 1924.

Fathers and mothers realize full well that they are quite as much in need of education, that they may know how most successfully to help their children develop their best possibilities, as those same children are in need of education, that they may learn to adapt themselves to the ever-varying conditions of this world in which we live. The following books, while not all educational books in the strict sense of the word, seem especially appropriate for "Educational Week," since they aim to give just the suggestions that the father and mother of children desire in order to be intelligent guides and comrades of their children:

ROBIN HOLLOW

By EDNA A. BROWN

Picture Jacket in Colors and Illustrations by John Goss

Sally Allison at sixteen declared herself capable of keeping house for her older brother, Sandy, and her firm intention of going with him when he was ordered to give up newspaper work and take a long rest. So the two established themselves at Robin Hollow, the century-old cottage in Vermont which Uncle Alexander had bequeathed to his namesake nephew.
The story tells how the two kept house during a country winter. The fresh outlook, the skilfully drawn characters, the quiet humor, the pleasant, refined atmosphere give a distinct charm to this book. As in all Miss Brown's writing, her unusual wealth of sound practical knowledge and her all-pervading common sense combine to place this wholesomely entertaining story for young people of high school age in a class above most books of its kind.

DIXIE MARTIN
The Girl of Woodford's Canon
by GRACE MAY NORTH

Picture Jacket in Colors and Illustrations by Elizabeth B. Warren

The Martin children, with Dixie, the eldest, and only twelve at that, go right to the hearts of those who read about them. Every one admires a girl who can be a capable "little mother" to brothers and sisters, and nothing else can better develop character and ability. Woodford's Canon, among the Sierra Nevada Mountains, makes a wonderful place for things to happen, and a young lady from New York, who for reasons of her own acts as district school-teacher, is a fine friend to Dixie and supplies thrilling interest to the story. Told by Grace May North, whose "Adele Doring Books" are such favorites, and handsomely presented, what better can girls of ten to fourteen want?

TEENY TALES FOR TINY TOTS

Told or Retold by SUSIE W. McGOWAN

With Picture Jacket and Twelve Full-Page Illustrations in Colors by Florence Liley Young

It was a hot, gasping, much relieved group of travellers who, finally, arrived at Glacier late in the afternoon.

The place is so shut in by the surrounding mountains that a solemn, hushed feeling inevitably creeps over
one as he gazes upon Sir Donald,

highest of the Selkirks, rising almost immediately in front of him in silent majesty. In shape this mountain is like the Matterhorn, Switzerland,

snowcapped, jagged, and pointed in outline. No smiling hamlet, however, nestles at its feet. Indeed, save for the small hotel, formerly the railroad station, and a few scattered lumbermen's huts, no human habitation distances its peace.

From Mount Sir Donald, the eye travelled to the Illicilwaet Glacier, seemingly just back of the hotel, really about two miles away. Through countless aeons of time, this Glacier has been slowly making its way down into the valley from a mountain range eight miles away. Many of the party climbed up a very beautifully wooded pathway to the edge of the Glacier.
Some even ventured out upon it, a most difficult and perilous task, making their way over huge bare boulders from between which ran numberless rivulets of melted snow.

The great blocks of ice which form the edge of the Glacier shone a translucent green in the sunlight, and thousands of streams poured from the Glacier's side down into the valley below.

Indeed, the sound of rushing water filled our ears as we sat on the veranda of the hotel, and directly opposite us, a waterfall, like a tiny silver thread, made its way over the valley's edge.

And the trees! Nowhere, except in the Yosemite and the Redwoods of the Mt. Tamalpais region, are they to be found. Wonderful cedars, and firs, tall and straight as arrows, some 150-200 feet in height, and perfectly symmetrical. Truly, this is the "country of the pointed fir."

The foliage, too, is of a richer, darker hue than ordinary. As for the flowers! It would take a botanist to describe them. These, together with the brilliant red berries of the mountain ash, larger and more brilliant than those of the East, make the valleys in this vicinity an ever increasing source of delight.

One of the most interesting of the excursions made by the club was an all-day trip by mountain wagon drawn by four horses up the side of Cheopo Mountain to the Nakini Caves. These caves are subterranean passages into what seems to be the bowels of the earth. They are most weird and uncanny places. Lighted only by torches, we made the descent along passages so narrow that we had to stoop to follow the guide. Cold and slimy and wet, nevertheless, they were strangely fascinating, for from some unknown and unseen depth beneath, one could hear the deep booming of the river which for countless ages has been carving its way through to the sea. One could easily imagine this to be the entrance to Hades.

How welcome was the sunlight as we once more made our way out of the caves and up to the little Swiss chalet where we had our dinner.

The return journey, with the setting sun shining on the distant snow-capped peaks, through the "forest principe," where at any moment one might meet a bear—several of the party did see them—was one long to be remembered.

GENTLEMAN SERVED FROM FRANCE

How an Alredale Served His Country
By CLARENCE HAWKINS

Pierre was a splendid Alredale that became the pet of a famous French actress, and was presented by her to a colonel in the French army, who begged a parting gift as he left for the front, whence he might never return.

Pierre found army life a great change from the luxurious one with his adoring mistress, but adapted himself quickly to new conditions, became a war hero, and won the Croix de Guerre, which he proudly wore about his neck. With difficulty and danger he carried the last message of his master to his mistress, the great actress.

Then he came to America with her, was lost, but after many adventures not only regained his fond mistress, but again did noble service for France in the army.

IMPRESSIONS OF THE WEST

The journey from Lake Louise to Glacier in the heart of the Selkirks was one of the most interesting of the entire trip.

About five miles from Lake Louise we came to the Great Divide, where the waters of a small stream divide, one part flowing East and one West,
one stream seeking the Pacific Ocean, and the other the Atlantic. The train stopped for a moment, and some of the party bathed their hands in both streams.

After passing the crest of the watershed,
the train descended rapidly, following the Columbia River as it makes its way through deep, densely wooded gorges, very wild and picturesque. So great were the curves, that those of us who were near the end of the train were frequently going in the opposite direction from that of our engine.

In "Kicking Horse Canyon" our train entered a spiral tunnel, a wonderful piece of engineering, and reappeared 54 feet below the point of entrance. Just before reaching Glacier, the train plunged into the Stygian darkness of Connaught tunnel, five miles in length.

It was a hot, gasping, much relieved
group of travellers who, finally, arrived at Glacier late in the afternoon.

The place is so shut in by the surrounding mountains that a solemn,
hushed feeling inevitably creeps over
one as he gazes upon Sir Donald,

highest of the Selkirks, rising almost immediately in front of him in silent majesty. In shape this mountain is like the Matterhorn, Switzerland,

snowcapped, jagged, and pointed in outline. No smiling hamlet, however, nestles at its feet. Indeed, save for the small hotel, formerly the railroad station, and a few scattered lumbermen's huts, no human habitation distances its peace.

The hospital has hot yet all the volunteers it needs for making surgical dressings but it finds encouragement in the fact that it has as new volunteers some young women from the high school. If a number more from the high school would take hold there would be no question of having enough dressings made by volunteers.

Dr. Baldwin was in charge of the Newton Hospital Club at its regular meeting on the evening of November 24.

The hospital recently received as a present for distribution among the patients several cleverly made dolls fashioned from clothes pins and gayly dressed in real paper cloths.

Brother Fabian of the Working Boys' Home sent to the hospital for use by the staff tickets to the recent concert given in Mechanics Hall, Boston, by the band of St. Mary's Industrial School at Baltimore.

Last Sunday evening Mr. Henry Stock, secretary of the Congregational Education Society of Boston, under direction of the hospital Y. W. C. A., talked to the nurses on "Different Phases of Youth Movements."

The Newtonville Woman's Club has given to the hospital four hundred and eleven glasses of jelly, one jar of grape juice and one jar of grapefruit juice. It also gave a quantity of old linen. An interesting circumstance about the gift is that when the jelly was received at the hospital count there made the number of jars exactly four hundred. A day or two after its receipt a delegate from the club arrived at the hospital with eleven more glasses as the club wishes to make the gift one of four hundred glasses and the club count of the first lot sent was three hundred and eighty-nine. This gift by the way is the largest of the kind made to the hospital the record up to this year, made also by the Newtonville Club, being last year's present of three hundred and twenty-four.

For Thanksgiving Day the hospital was decorated although not as fully decorated as it will be at Christmas.
Thanksgiving Day dinner tables were set in the wards and to every patient well enough to eat it there was given a dinner of turkey, ice cream and cakes. Patients who were just far enough along to be able to sit up for a while were given their sitting up time at the dinner hour, if well enough to eat it and in their wheel chairs were placed as near to the tables as possible and served on trays. In the Nurses' Home the tables were set with centre pieces of fruits and nuts and there was a dinner of turkey, white and sweet potatoes, squash, celery, olives, and apple, pumpkin, and mince pies and ice cream. There were no squash pies because the vegetable for dinner was squash.

The officers and members of the Newton Hospital Aid Association are very much pleased with the success of the bridge whist which the Association gave for the benefit of the hospital at the Women's Republican Club in Boston on the afternoon of November 24. Because of the weather some of those who had bought tables did not attend but the number who did attend filled the rooms to the limit. At each one of the tables there was a little fern as a souvenir and prize for the player with the highest score at the table. The candy and flower tables were most successful, their receipts being about $150 and the Association appreciates the kindness and generosity of those who contributed to them and those who served at them. In the latter part of the afternoon Mrs. Albie Conley Rice, accompanied by Mr. J. Walter Colburn, sang most charmingly.

Also during the afternoon the ladies who were present at the whist were invited by Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird to attend the reception being given by the club to the newly appointed senator, Mr. Butler and Mrs.
Butler. The receipts from the whist will amount to about $500, the amount which it was hoped to raise by it for the purchase of necessary equipment for the new eye clinic at the hospital.

Besides the good time enjoyed by those who attended, and the amount raised for the eye clinic, the officers of the Association feel that the whist also helped to increase the interest of the women of the city in the hospital and the work it is doing for Newton people.

THE NEWTON ARCHERS

Archery had some supporters last Saturday, in spite of high winds and promise of rain. Saturday was the last time that some of The Newton Archers would have an opportunity to shoot the annual Team Shoot.

All the Newton Archers eligible are now wearing their Cyrus E. Dallin emblems, either as pins, watch fobs, or pendants. These are circular, an inch and a quarter in diameter. They are made in a very lovely shade of bronze, which appropriately sets off the kneeling Indian archer pictured thereon. These emblems can only be bought by a Newton Archer after handing in for the records, five complete scores of the Saturday or holiday competitions.

It is considered a great honor to be able to own one of these emblems designed by the famous sculptor, Mr.
Dallin. Mr. Dallin has been shooting at Newton Centre for many years, and is usually the leading man in competitions. Unlike most archers he draws his bow string to his chest, learning this method from the Indians as a boy. Contrary to current ideas, Indians were poor long distance shooters. They excelled at 30 and 40 yards, which are ladies' distances, mostly, in these times.

Legend About a Bird

The medieval legend about a bird removing thorns from the crown placed on the head of Christ is as follows: The legend is that the crossbill, a bird of the family of finches, whose bill is peculiarly formed, enabling it to extract substances deeply imbedded, worked at the thorns of Christ's crown, seeking to extract them, and its plumage became stained with blood. For this act of mercy it was

NONANTUM CO-OPERATIVE BANK

A meeting of the Shareholders of the Nonantum Co-operative Bank for the purpose of making nominations for a clerk and eight directors, to be elected at the annual meeting on January 13, 1925, will be held at the office of the bank, 352 Centre street, Newton, Tuesday evening, December 9, 1924, at 7:30 P. M.

W. T. HANNIGAN, Clerk.

The will of Mrs. Abbie Y. Burr of Newton, widow of Charles C. Burr, filed at the East Cambridge probate court this week, leaves her homestead, 983 Centre street, Newton Centre, to the Rev. Edward T. Sullivan, rector of Trinity Church, Newton Centre, to be used by him for a home during his life-time, or the net income from it he prefers not to live there. At his death the property, together with an adjoining lot, is to go to the parish to be used as a rectory.

Mrs. Burr leaves to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions $10,000 and to the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children $200. Two servants, Ellen Donahue and Mary Kedigan, are bequeathed $1000 each. More than $100,000 is disposed of in private bequests to relatives.

In court Tuesday he was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction for driving after his license had been revoked. He was also fined

$750 for refusing to stop when ordered to do so by an officer, but Judge

Weston revoked this fine when In-
